EARL BEATTY'S CALL FOR STRONGER NAVY

Britain Below Standard Of Great Power

NELSON DAY WARNING: "NOT ENOUGH MEN TO MAN SHIPS"

Earl Beatty, who commanded the Grand Fleet from 1916 to 1919 and who was First Sea Lord from 1919 to 1927, declared last night that:

Our standard of naval strength to-day is insufficient, on the one hand, to make us an attractive ally and play our part as a world power;

It is not sufficient, on the other hand, to guarantee the free passage of the sea to our ships.

Lord Beatty was speaking at the Nelson Day dinner of the Navy League. His warning regarding the deficiencies of the Fleet follows that of Sir Ernle Chatfield, the present First Sea Lord, who declared only the previous night that our Battle Fleet was passing its prime.

NEEDS OF THE NAVY SUMMARISED

Dealing in detail with the needs of the Navy, Lord Beatty made the following points:

Battleships. — Replacement is overdue, but it is not on the horizon yet.

Cruisers. — This country must never again bind itself to the unsafe limit of the London Treaty, but must build for the exceptional responsibilities we have.

Summing up the position, Lord Beatty declared that our financial credit had been restored at the price of the weakening of our defences.

TO BECOME "AN ATTRACTIVE ALLY"

Earl Beatty was replying on behalf of the Navy to the toast of the Imperial Forces, proposed at the Navy League dinner at Dorchester House by Sir Archibald.

He began his speech of warning by pointing out that in the past Great Britain's traditional policy had been to contract alliances to preserve a Balance of Power. We had never been without Allies.

To be of value as an ally we must be strong somewhere. We must have something to bargain with. He went on:

"For the purpose of making solid contributions to the directing of European affairs from which we cannot divorce ourselves to-day, the Navy is the handmaiden of our foreign policy. Without a strong Navy, we are no use to anybody, and we cannot play our part as a Great Power."

"The doctrine of sea power is to secure for our ships the free passage of the sea. This free passage of the sea is the beginning and end of our safety as an Empire, and, indeed, of our national safety."

"It cannot be said too often that our standard of naval strength to-day is insufficient, on the one hand, to make us an attractive ally, able to play our part as a Great Power and thereby help to promote a restoration of international confidence, nor, on the other, is it sufficient to guarantee the free passage of the sea to our ships."

Sacrificed for Credit. Mr. Baldwin at Birmingham had said that we had kept our armaments down in order to concentrate every ounce of effort on the restoration of our credit.

"Our credit," declared Lord Beatty, "is restored, but at a sacrifice; our power of defence is weak. Other countries have not restored their credit but have maintained their armaments."

"Now that the economic difficulties are getting less acute, the defence difficulties are getting more insistent. The time has surely come when we must meet the just, right, and proper demands of those who are responsible for supplying and maintaining the defences upon which we actually exist."

"We have no right to continue to run the terrible risks we have in the past years. Let me say that to-day, at the Admiralty we have a Board of exceptional qualifications which can be trusted to administer the Navy in the most economical way."

Replacement Overdue. Dealing in detail with the needs of the Navy, Lord Beatty proceeded:

H.K. MERCHANTS IN CANTON

New Duties Discussed

(From Our Special Correspondent)

Canton, Nov. 11. Prominent Hong Kong Chinese merchants, who arrived here yesterday as guests of Mr. Chow Lu, President of Sun Yat Sen University, inspected the new campus at Shek Pei where corner stones for new buildings were laid. The visitors were impressed by the extensive grounds and the general plan of the new structures.

While in Canton, the Chinese merchants took advantage of the occasion and discussed the question of exemption from duty of Chinese manufactures from Hong Kong with Mr. Chow Lu, who is a standing member of the South-west Political Council. A short while ago to exempting their products from customs duty upon importation to Canton and other places in Kwangtung.

According to one of the merchants, the discussion on this matter was informal and most satisfactory, and Mr. Chow was inclined to share the view of the Hong Kong visitors. However, the matter will be submitted to the South-west Political Council for final decision.

After taking part in the ninth anniversary celebration of the university and the accompanying events, the merchants will return to Hong Kong this afternoon.

Dwindling Personnel. "Now the next point to which I wish to refer is the personnel of the Navy. In the last few years the personnel of the Navy has been reduced by 12,000 men."

"How have the Admiralty been able to save 12,000 men? Have we the men to-day to fully man our ships? I doubt this most emphatically. What steps have been taken or are being taken to increase the number of our personnel and bring them up to the higher standard adopted by the U.S.A. and Japan? As a matter of interest, and I might add, grave concern."

"The personnel of the U.S. Navy is 107,000, a 60 per cent. increase on 1914 numbers."

"That of Japan, 88,000 in 1931, with probably a greater number to-day—in any case an increase of 74 per cent. on 1914 numbers."

"Our personnel has been reduced to 20,500, a decrease of 35 per cent."

ABOUT ROAD BEHAVIOUR

Slow, Selfish Drivers Who Exasperate

For some time now one has read about "cutting-in" merchants and road hogs, and I cannot refrain any longer from putting the other side of the picture before your readers, writes a correspondent to the auto car.

I am not suggesting that there are no road hogs, but I do definitely say that the number is greatly exaggerated. There is a much more numerous and dangerous type of motorist on the road—the reckless, dithering dodger, usually of the male sex and of the ancient and sour variety, many of whom claim that they have been driving for umpteen years, and who have painfully obviously never learnt anything since the first year. Sometimes their vehicles are of the same vintage as themselves.

Most modern motorists know the type of person I mean—the "can't get on, won't get off" kind, self-appointed regulators of traffic. Let a driver go as slowly as he likes, but refrain from obstructing, keep well in, and wave others on. Sometimes, when the main roads are crowded, you will find a string of these merchants sitting behind a lorry, and when someone who hasn't the rest of his life to spend on the road does what they call "cutting in," the Press is full of their moans. I frequently pass in this manner, but never on a wet day or to the danger or embarrassment of an oncoming driver.

I am a staunch believer in sensible Safety First, and would prefer to walk rather than endanger the lives of pedestrians—especially children—or even animals; but to hang about behind dithering dodgers—no!

I have owned a driving licence for over twenty years, and should think I have averaged a hundred miles per week during that period, chiefly within a hundred miles of London.

Motor Insurance in Japan

Tokyo, Oct.—To help the families of those killed or injured in motor car accidents in Japan, a new automobile insurance regulation has been drafted by the Labour Section of the Social Bureau of the Home Department.

The new regulation aims to indemnify victims of automobile accidents through a national insurance system by charging all motor car owners a monthly fee of Yen 1.50 to Yen 2, in case of accidents, families of those killed will receive a maximum of Yen 250 from the national treasury, with a minimum of Yen 24 for the disabled.

Chauffeur and drivers will also benefit from the new ruling which proposes to compensate those unable to work with a daily allowance of Yen 1.50. Another feature of the proposed regulation will be exempt from all blame coming from civil courts in case of accidents.

Motorcycles with side-cars and other motor-powered vehicles can also take advantage of the proposed ruling by paying one-third of the regular motor car fees.

Basic compensation sums follow: Man killed, Yen 350; Woman, Yen 250; child Yen 150. In cases where the car involved in the accident has been taxed Yen 2 monthly instead of the usual Yen 1.50 insurance premium, Yen 100 is added to the above basic figures. Compensation for injuries is divided into 14 classes ranging from the maximum Yen 450 to minimum Yen 20.

NEARLY 40,000 MILES FROM A SET OF TYRES

It may interest your readers to know writes a correspondent to a Home paper that I have run a set of Dunlop tyres (ordinary, not Fort) for 38,800 miles on my Alvis sports two-seater, with only two punctures. These tyres were on the car when I took delivery of it, new, at the Alvis works, Coventry, on August 1st, 1930.

The pattern on the tyres is now scarcely discernible, but there is plenty of thickness of rubber left.

MOTOR-CARS AT OLYMPIA

Popularity Of Medium Sixes And Eights

Three or four years ago according to Mr. A. G. Throssell, the "Daily Telegraph" Motoring Correspondent, the full-sized car with engine of 18 to 25 h.p. was the standard motor vehicle of the average owner-driver. Now, after the period of depression, there are signs of returning favour for the larger car, and new models in this class are again appearing.

To deal with the newcomers first: Vauxhall now have a Big Six as team-mate for the very successful Light Six introduced last June. It has a 20 h.p. six-cylinder engine, and a really roomy five-seater body. The Vauxhall synchromesh is fitted, of course, and "no-draught" ventilation; the whole chassis is automatically lubricated from the engine, and there is a degree of stream-lining in the saloon bodies. The standard car costs £325, and seven-seater limousine is available, on a longer wheelbase with a 27 h.p. engine at £550.

Additional Features

The Hillman Wizard of yore is replaced by a new car known as the Sixteen. It has a six-cylinder side-valve engine of 15.7 h.p. (£216 tax), with "cushioned power" mounting, synchromesh plus (on all except the "family" model), free-wheel, and "cyclonic" induction. The family saloon costs £259, and may be had at the same figure with a 21 h.p. engine, the de luxe saloon is £295, and there is a good range of attractive body styles.

Of the larger Austins the Sixteen is notable as the only model at present to be offered with the Hayes fully automatic, infinitely variable gear as an optional fitting at £40 extra. The car, which shares the regular Austin improvements, synchromesh and the rest, and has also adjustable back seats, is now to be had with either a 16 or an 18 h.p. engine at prices from £295 to £348. The Twenty (£224 tax), now in its fifteenth year of production, is from £515.

An entirely new overhead-valve engine with overhead camshaft has been fitted to the Single Two-litre model of £16 tax, and this has given it a much improved performance. Two good-looking saloons are shown each costing £295, while the largest Singer, the "Silent Six," of 18 h.p., costs £100 more. All these cars have free-wheeling.

There has been less chassis change in the three big Morris Sixes, the Oxford, Isis and "25," than on the rest of that famous range, but they all have in addition to the synchromesh gear-box, a free-wheel and Bendix automatically withdrawn clutch, which really does make driving a matter of gear-lever, accelerator and brake pedal only. The front seats have an armrest and the interior equipment has been otherwise increased. Typical prices are: Oxford saloon, £285; Isis five-seater coupe, £370; "25" saloon, £395.

The two Humbers, the 16/60 and the Snipe and Pullman are altered in looks by a new sloped radiator and lengthened bonnet as well as new body-lines, and they are all fitted with synchromesh, free-wheel, built-in jacks and direction indicators, and a new type of radiator shutter. The 16/60 (£217 tax) costs from £240, the Snipe (£224 tax) sports saloon, a striking and individual car, is £550, and the Pullman from £735.

Free-wheel and vacuum-operated automatic clutch are also new features of the Wolseley Sixteen and 21 h.p. "County" model. The wheelbase of the former has been lengthened five inches to give more body room. All Wolseleys again boast hardened cylinder liners for long wear. The Sixteen saloon costs £330 and the County £415.

Body Improvements

Few changes have been made in the larger Lanchester, the 18 h.p. six, but the bodies of which three specimens are shown, have been improved. Prices are from £395 to £675. The same policy marks the new Talbot programme, and some extremely handsome bodies are to be seen on the firm's and coach-builders' stands. The "75" (£218 tax) is from £495, and the "95" and "105" (both £21 tax) range from £645 to £705.

The Armstrong-Siddeley Twenty, which has shared with the other models of this make in the recent striking improvements in looks and comfort, is notable to-day as one of the few closed cars on which the driver's vision is not sacrificed in some degree to appearance. This car costs from £535, and permanent jacks are to be had on several models.

Rover still retains the 18 h.p. Meteor, which now is £438 as a saloon, and the "Speed Twenty," which did so well in the R.A.C. Rally, costs, with the attractive "Hastings" coupe body, £495. Crossley have a new 16 h.p. model, known as the two-litre, with a high-class road performance. It has the Wilson gear-box, and a five-seater sports saloon costs £295. The Silver Crossley, also of £16 tax, is £525 with the Wilson gear-box, and the 21 h.p. Super-Six limousine is £375. The now famous stream-lined model will be dealt with in my next article.

The new Standard sixes, of 18 and 20 h.p., are most up-to-date. Their engines have "buoyant" mounting, their gear-boxes are synchromesh and silent on second as well as third, they have free-wheeling, and permanent four-wheel jacks. The sixteen five-seater saloon de luxe is £275 and can be fitted with a 20 h.p. engine at the same price, and the Twenty with longer wheelbase and seven-seater body is £395. These engines are also used in the well-known S.S. cars, which are separately shown.

The A.C. reappears at Olympia after several years' absence. The first of British light-sixes, it is now re-designed with a four-speed gear-box in the normal position and underlining frame with cruciform bracing. Prices are from £435.

Cars From Abroad

Most of the cars from abroad are in this class. To take the Empire first, the Buicks are those which have been on the English market most of this year. Both 28 and 38 h.p. eight-cylinder chassis have automatic heat control to carburettor, automatic clutch withdrawal and free-wheel, and three-speed synchromesh, and the saloons have no-draught ventilation. The smaller, the "Viceroy," is from £435 and the "Master" with 11 ft. 6 in. wheel-base from £525.

Chrysler likewise have automatic clutch, free-wheel and synchromesh as well as "floating power" engine mounting. There are three 20 h.p. sixes, costing as saloons from £325 to £425, a 26 h.p. six at £495, and "eights" of 34 h.p. at from £635.

Essex "Terraplane" models have won fame this year for amazing acceleration. There are three chassis models, two sixes of 17 and 21 h.p. and an eight of 27 h.p., and prices for the complete cars range from £305 to £415, or, in the case of the special Ralston Terraplane, £499. The Hudson Pacemaker saloon with 29 h.p. 8-cylinder engine is £880.

LEA-FRANCIS CARS FOR 1934

No changes are being made in Lea-Francis cars for 1934, and the range of models is to be continued at unaltered prices, with the exception of certain of the 12-40 h.p. types, which are slightly increased.

The complete programme is as follows:—12-40 h.p. Lea-Francis chassis £390, two-seater and four-seater touring £315, four-seater de luxe £340, semi-panelled saloon £370, fixed-head coupe £386, 11-litre chassis £400, four-seater £350, Tourist Trophy two-seater £350, saloon £390, a-litre chassis £390, semi-panelled saloon £420, coach built saloon £445, 16 h.p. chassis £365, four-seater £440, four-seater coupe £460, coachbuilt saloon £485.

Lea-Francis cars are very much appreciated for their qualities of reliability and capacity to withstand hard work. On the road they are very stable, because of the rigidity of their low hung frames, developed in road racing, and of the special way in which the springs

SOME RESURRECTED "NOVELTIES"

And Recollections Of Pre-war Fittings!

Exaggeration may be held to lie in the axiom that there is nothing new under the sun, but there is also a measure of truth therein, and one is reminded of this in reading a letter from Mr. J. van Hooydonk, who is one of the oldest members of the British motor industry, and who was responsible for the design and manufacture of the Phoenix motor vehicles—motor cycles, three-wheelers, and cars—that at one time figured so prominently among British productions.

Mr. van Hooydonk recalls that in 1911 the Phoenix car had that "modern" feature, a locker in the rear panel of the body to house the spare wheel. There was also a hidden reserve of petrol and oil under the floorboards, corresponding with the petrol reserve of now up-to-date cars. Front-wheel brakes, ordinarily considered an innovation of the past few years, were fitted to a small car by Mr. van Hooydonk as far back as 1905, but they were discontinued because of an idea gaining currency that the front brakes were provided because the rear ones were inefficient.

Oil level and petrol level gauges have been adopted for a great many cars more or less recently, and hailed as a commendable novelty; they were, however, on pre-war Phoenix cars, but were discontinued because of potential buyers fearing that the gauge glasses might break and allow petrol and oil to flood the car!

One of the most remarkable instances of this revival of old ideas came to my notice during the war, had concern, strangely enough, with Mr. F. Lionel Rapson of Rapson tyre fame, whose death occurred last week. Rapson during the war invented and patented a ball-bearing screw-jack for cars, but the War Office took up the idea for application to anti-aircraft guns and other purposes, and forbade publication of the patent specification. After the war Rapson claimed a sum as royalties from the Government; the amount was agreed upon, but at the last moment prior to settlement somebody discovered a patent specification about 100 years old relating to the very same idea, that was peculiar enough, but more remarkable was the fact that the patentee was F. Rapson's grandfather.

Car Industry Thriving

MORE CAR ORDERS THAN EVER

The prospects in the motor car industry this year are bright, according to the reports of Birmingham firms.

In the first week following the announcement of their new models, the firm orders received by Wolseley Motors were more than double those of the corresponding week last year, which was in itself a record for the Company.

A similar encouraging report comes from the Austin Motor Co., where it is stated that demand is considerably in excess of last year.

ALCOHOL AND MOTORISTS

The ancient question of what constitutes drunkenness has been revived by the pronouncement of a divisional surgeon at the London Sessions on the "five stages" of drunkenness.

I discussed this problem with a medico-legal expert. He maintained that the difficulties which have arisen during the last few years in the courts when motorists have been charged with drunkenness can be ascribed to two causes—the refusal of the law to recognise degrees of drunkenness; and neglect hitherto of tests for determining accurately the concentration of alcohol in the blood of an accused motorist, to establish the degree of alcoholic intoxication.

Even when such tests have been performed the courts have been reluctant to accept them as definite proof of alcoholic intoxication.

By Degrees.

A famous physician once stated that the four stages of drunkenness could be considered under the headings:

- (1) Jocular;
- (2) Bellicose;
- (3) Lachrymose; and
- (4) Comatose.

An American medico-legal expert's definitions were even more definite:

- (1) Dry and decent;
- (2) Delighted and devilish;
- (3) Delinquent and disgusting;
- (4) Dizzy and delirious;
- (5) Dazed and dejected;
- (6) Dead drunk.

Each of these stages depends on the amount of alcohol in the blood.

Need for New Tests

My own medico-legal friend pointed out that a concentration of more than 6 per cent. of alcohol in the blood represents the level at which life is endangered, and would be produced by the taking of 14 points of proof spirit or two gallons of beer, supposing that it was drunk within a short time.

A state of moderate intoxication, induced by 153 per cent. of alcohol in a man's blood has resulted from taking four pints of beer on an empty stomach.

If the same amount were taken with a meal the concentration of the blood would be retarded, and the proportion in the blood would not rise above 1 per cent.

These facts show how difficult it is to rely upon ordinary tests for drunkenness, and that it is important that the law should now consider the question of degrees of drunkenness in their relationship to motoring.

A MILLION MILES' MOTORING

"I have driven a car a million miles in twenty-six years without ever having an accident, was the claim of a Blackpool motorist, who was lately fined £1 and costs at Fleetwood Sessions for driving a motor car without due care. "The Auto car."

DUNLOPS AND INDIA

It has been announced that the Dunlop Rubber Co. is to acquire control of the India Tyre and Rubber Co. (Great Britain), which has submitted a reconstruction scheme to its shareholders under which 2,350,000 new one shilling ordinary shares of the India Tyre Co. are subscribed for at two shillings a share by the Dunlop Rubber Co. The India Company will continue manufacturing at Inchinnan, retaining its individuality.

FIGHTING STILL IN PROGRESS

A country at sixes and sevens, and ruled by fear and force of arms is how a correspondent describes the present state of Siam. Guerilla fighting continues in the northeastern part of the country between the rebels and the Government troops.

The King celebrates his fortieth birthday on Wednesday but the people are in no mood for rejoicing.

Bangkok, Nov. 1.
Hostilities between the Government troops and troops commanded by those who disagreed with the Government's policy broke out openly on Oct. 12, and are still continuing in the northeastern, and most inaccessible part of the country. They are now confined to more or less guerilla fighting, on the one hand
a hopelessly outnumbered force, living on the countryside, and on the side of authority the possession of the one means of communication with the capital—a single track of railway—and the knowledge that they can wear down their opponents.

NO ROYAL BIRTHDAY REJOICING

His Majesty will celebrate the fortieth anniversary of his birthday (Nov. 8) quietly, and seemingly away from the capital.
And his loyal subjects in these sombre days are in no mood for rejoicing or festivity. Too many have met with a violent end killed
by their own countrymen; too
many are behind bars awaiting trial for taking the wrong side in the civil war, to allow of anything like the usual celebration on this day.

To any administration faced with the difficulties which have over-taken this country in the last few months, the present outbreak is about the last straw, and if it does not break the camel's back certainly will reduce the size and importance of his hump.
The bearing these present troubles are going to have on the financial position no one can accurately envisage. But the communiqué this week have confirmed the worst forebodings.
One of these documents issued admits damage amounting to several million ficals, coupled with a distinct threat to the independence of the country, as the result of civil war.

THE GREAT BLUNDER

The material losses are capable of assessment in some form or another, but the loss to the nation by this uprising, none can approximate because time alone
will reveal the extent and depth of the wounds the Siamese people have sustained. The work of several generations, towards consolidating, moulding, and presenting to the world a united people developing a country as large as France, and emerging from the thrall of foreign supervision, is now in the melting pot. For the moment the country is ruled
by force and fear of arms.

We are too close to cause and effect to paint the picture clearly. Whether Siam has become involved to such an extent in the world misery of modern conditions that her present troubles
could not be avoided or escaped from, the historian may be able to decide; but there is a very definite body of moderate opinion convinced that these troubles
which have now to be endured are very largely of wilful seeking.

fostered by a desire to sample the doctrines and theories of people still trying in other lands
to evolve a new heaven and earth,
by untested, untried and unleavened ideas.

GOOD TRY OUT FOR THE ARMY

The modern Siamese army has had a good try out in the past few weeks, better indeed than any manoeuvres, on however thorough
a scale, could have produced.
Mechanised traction has been exploited and developed and the troops engaged have lived under real service conditions. Only the flooded state of the country in which operations were conducted
has prevented trench warfare,
and the weary waiting for results which followed trench warfare on the western front in the Great War. The Air arm has also had a chance to demonstrate its value
and the success of its training.
The possibilities of aerial distribution both of bombs and circulars has been demonstrated all too successfully perhaps to a hitherto unconvinced populace.
Science in the form of wireless
has also contributed its quota.
The cutting of telegraph lines in all directions has not paralysed communications as would have been the case ten years ago.
When the telegraphs ceased to function wireless took up the burden of conveying messages to the outer marches, and neighbouring Malaya. Had the opposition possessed a plant capable of blocking the government facilities for broadcasting and thereby communication with nearby countries, a different tale might have been told.

For the first time in the history of Siamese troops in the field,
one supposes, they have been
bread fed in preference to rice.
Despite the difficulties the farmers have in disposing of their grain, and all the talk of an economic nature, the authorities are paying bakeries employing Chinese labour to knead flour,
imported from abroad, to bake bread, transport same from the capital by train to feed the troops, rather than supply them with their natural food grown in the country which in its turn employs Siamese labour, and Siamese manufactured cooking pots. China supports her own farmers by imposing duties on imported foreign rice; seemingly the present day administrators in Siam praise the cultivator as the backbone of the country, and refuge in times of national need to buy the produce won by his labour.

The censorship still reigns supreme but the outposts have sources of information too, and publish statements that if not at actual variance with the official communiqué at least present other facts of the present civil war.
Some day the ban must be lifted,
and the industrious recorder will be able to present an interesting story of the times we now live in.

RUSSIA'S DEFIANCE OF JAPAN

Complete Soviet Victory Seen In Case War Is Expected

Moscow, U.S.S.R., Nov. 7.
The fact of a million marchers, parading through Red Square today in observance of the 16th anniversary of the Russian revolution, best an impressive "accompanyment" to a new Soviet declaration of defiance to Japan.

Y. M. Molotov, chairman of the council of people's commissars, in his anniversary address, said the Soviet nation was fully prepared for the possibility of an unexpected attack by Japan.

foreign affairs to the Manchurian situation—the question of diplomatic relations between the United States and Russia.

ROOSEVELT PRAISED

His praised President Franklin D.
Roosevelt, more opening the way
for resumption of relations.
The streets and squares adjoining Red Square were crowded by Red Army men on foot and on horse, by artillery of all types, cavalry, aeroplanes, and other staples of Soviet military preparedness.

Moscow's demonstrations are unique in that nearly everybody
watches and almost nobody watches.

DIPLOMATS PRESENT

For hours broad columns of men, women and children waited their turn to enter the square, where reviewing stands against the Kremlin
were crowded with people invited to witness the demonstration. Among them were hundreds of foreign tourists and labor delegations from abroad.

The last to arrive, just before the demonstration started, were Joseph Stalin, Lazar Kaganovich and Molotov.

The proceedings on Red Square
were broadcast to the entire city, hundreds of loud-speakers having been strung up on the principal streets for the purpose. The blare of military marches, carried to every part of the capital, was almost inescapable.

Every other city, town and village
in the Union was putting up as impressive a show as possible today.

SOVIET ADVISED TO REDUCE TROOPS

(By Associated Press)

Tokyo, Nov. 7.
Strong advice to the Soviet government to decrease its military concentrations in eastern Siberia, following the example of the American plan to end naval concentration in the Pacific next year, was given to Ambassador Yurenev by Foreign Minister Koki Hirota in a three-hour conference late Monday, according to circumstantial accounts
published today by the Bengo news agency and individual newspapers.
Practically the entire diplomatic corps was present, in a section to the left of the mausoleum, when the parade began. As usual, the oath of allegiance was taken by new recruits deployed on Red Square, just before the military display.

U. S. CITED

Hirota was reported to have asserted the plan to return a portion of the United States fleet to the Atlantic had markedly improved American-Japanese feeling, and then pointedly declared the present Russo-Japanese tension was largely due to the Red army concentrations in the Far East, especially along the Manchukuo frontier.

The announcement last week of the American plan of returning the Atlantic fleet to the east coast next year for a few months caused some confusion and working at cross purposes here.

USED AS WEAPON

The alleged heavy concentration of Soviet military might in eastern Siberia has been the chief weapon
of the war office in demanding approximately 620,000,000 yen from the 1934-35 budget.

A revival of Russian military power "making Japan unable to rest at ease concerning her defenses
in the direction of the Asiatic continent" was given as the primary reason for the army demands in a recent war office communique.
This declared, Russia now has ten divisions of troops, 200 tanks and several hundred airplanes in the Far East, the latter "being capable of attacking Tokyo immediately in the event of an outbreak of war between Japan and Russia."

THE LEAGUE ASSEMBLY

What The Last Session Accomplished

(By Leslie R. Aldous)

London, Oct. 25.
For three weeks, Prime Ministers, Foreign Ministers, Chancellors and other distinguished statesmen from 53 different countries have been at Geneva. Some, it is true, have not been able to stay for the whole of the League of Nations Assembly. But, in spite of comings and goings, as big a volume of hard work as ever has been going on at the seat of the League. Yet the Assembly is said to have been dull and, according to some critics, a waste of time.

Now the new war had conveniently chosen this time to burst upon the international horizon, as happened in 1931, the Assembly would have received all the publicity that it required. However, the delegates arrived in too chastened a mood even to indulge in spectacular verbal battles. Great play has been made with the fact that the general debate had to be postponed because nobody wanted to speak. Had the statesmen been anxious to deliver the usual type of laudatory speeches, they could easily have found plenty of material in the Secretary-General's annual report. For the League has stopped a war or two and has done quite a lot besides during the past year. But it seems as if the delegates were thinking more of thrashing out the big problems which were uppermost in all minds. The Assembly Hall is the League's shop window and not the place for spade-work. So the real Assembly this year was to be found in the committee rooms, the lobbies and the hotels.

Right from the early stages, the psychological effect of these meetings and conversations was important. It could not be otherwise with such figures as Dr. Dollfus of Austria, the German Minister of Propaganda, the French Premier and Sir John Simon coming into close personal contact. A feeling began to spread that things were not quite so bad as had been anticipated. If Europe had not yet turned the corner, it could see round the corner.

Everybody realised, too, that the Assembly was a kind of prelude to the resumption of the Disarmament Conference. When the latter negotiations get under way, it may be found that the time was not wasted.

And, of course, in the background, all the normal work of a League Assembly was proceeding as usual. Little fault can be found with the way in which the social and humanitarian activities are being carried on. At Geneva, in short, the past few weeks have revealed abundant proof of the inherent vitality of the League.

ALARMS IN N. E. KIANGSI

Forced Landing Made By An Aeroplane

N. E. Kiangsi, Oct. 26.
These days have been full of excitement and danger as well. Last week an aeroplane arrived, flying from Nanchang to Hangchow but when getting here it was found that the petrol had given out. The airmen could not at first locate the aerodrome, so circled over the city several times. Once it was so low when flying over one house that everybody got a scare, the children screamed, when they heard the terrific noise, some of the bigger ones crawled under their bedding. But all of us felt rather scared, as it seemed as if they had more or less lost control over it. Before they reached the aerodrome, almost a mile from the city, they managed to bring it down in a field, where there would be no danger to any of the people, and there they spent two days. Practically the whole city went out to see it. The following morning one school went out, and everybody, young and old, leaving just a few to keep the premises. Two very pretty aeroplanes arrived from Nanchang to repair the damage done. Alas! one special piece of machinery was needed, which they had not brought, so another day had to be spent waiting for that. On the third day everything was ship shape again, and all sailed off.

We were rather glad of having them going and coming these days, for soldiers were being changed about and then we always fear trouble. The aeroplanes left on Saturday, and on Monday, while still waiting for reinforcements, the bandits came quite close to the city, and their shooting was very

Contract Bridge Tournament

NOVEL CONTEST
ARRANGED FOR H'KONG

An Open Contract Bridge Tournament is to be held under the Patronage of His Honour, Mr. Justice Lindell, and will be run under the following regulations.

1.—The Tournament shall be managed by a Committee hereinafter termed, the "Committee of Management" consisting of His Honour, Mr. Justice Lindell, as President and Messrs. Ho Leung, M. K. Lo, M. H. Lo and M. E. Pollard as Secretaries.

2.—The Tournament shall be entered by competitors in pairs, each pair to consist of either two gentlemen or two ladies or a gentleman and a lady.

3.—The entrance fee for each pair shall be $10.00.

4.—After deducting all expenses, the balance of the entrance fees money will be devoted to prizes.

5.—The Tournament shall be played in accordance to the law of Contract Bridge as published in the International Laws of Contract Bridge-1932.

6.—There shall be a drawing of the contestants, each pair to play against their opponents as decided by the draw, the winning pair progressing to the next round whilst the losing pair is eliminated.

7.—Five rubbers shall be played, the winners being the pair which win the greater number of points at the end of the five rubbers.

8.—The draw and a schedule of dates on which the rounds are to be played shall be published and contestants failing to appear in accordance with the schedule shall be scratched, the opponents who appear being entitled to advance to the next round as winners, and if both pairs fail to appear then both pairs shall be scratched and the opponents who should have played the winners of the scratched pair shall advance to the next round as winners.

9.—The contests shall take place at the Sports Club and a referee appointed by the Committee of Management shall be in charge and his decision on any point of dispute whatever shall be final.

10.—The stakes shall be a quarter cent per point, unless otherwise agreed upon.

11.—Cards and scorers shall be provided.

12.—The Committee of Management reserves the right to cancel the Tournament if the number of entries is not sufficient and to alter these regulations as they think fit.

13.—Entries shall be closed at 5 p.m. on Thursday, the 30th November, all entries which should contain addresses (and telephone numbers if any) of the contestants together with $10.00 entrance fee for each pair, should be sent to M. E. Pollard, c/o A. H. Potts, Bank of Canton Building, 4, Des Voeux Road. The contestants who are members of clubs in the Colony should also state the name of a club in their entries.

14.—The first round will start on the 11th of December at 5.30 p.m.

JANET GAYNOR
AT HER BEST"Paddy, The Next Best Thing"Janet Gaynor has never shown her talents to better advantage than in her newest starring vehicle, "Paddy, The Next Best Thing", in which she is co-starred with Warner Baxter at the King's Theatre.Cast as a lively little Irish lass whose sole fault is her ability to tell white lies, a quality that eventually embroils her in all sorts of entanglements, she performs in her usual charming manner. Warner Baxter, as the son of the Irish coastal town in which "Paddy" takes place, does an excellent piece of acting in a typically romantic Warner-Baxter role.
The others of the cast, including Margaret Lindsay, who will be remembered as the "Titanic" girl in "Cavalcade" and Walter Connolly, famous performance from the New York stage, all do their utmost to make "Paddy" an enjoyable screen work.Harry Lachman, who directed many film success abroad, has done his best work with "Paddy"
which is set against a beautiful pictorial background as has been viewed in films in many months.TO-DAY AT THE

MADCHEN IN UNIFORMA Bitter Satire On Girls' School"Madchen in Uniform" is a Ufa film that had a great success in both England and Germany. In the version being shown at the Central the dialogue is in German
but the action is quite sufficient to convey the meaning. The film is one that parents, particularly of growing daughters would do well to see. It reveals much that many people prefer not to see and get angry if they are told.The film is a bitter satire on German schools for young ladies,
and has drawn closely upon a fine
English novel, Clemence Dane's
"Regiment of Women." With satiric mockery a picture is drawn of the superficial discipline and beneath it the hysteria, deceit and queer perversions of the human spirit, that grow out of systematic mental bullying and semi-starvation.The story tells of the conflict between a young and humane mistress in a school and an elderly severe one. It shows how the habit of bullying grows on its own insatiable appetite to inflict suffering, and yet more suffering,
until the character of the perpetrator becomes monstrous and grotesque. She is a terrible figure,
the old headmistress so sure of herself, so strong, and so utterly abominable. As she finally creeps out of the place she has ruled with her iron hands, the film touches
the level of tragedy—the tragedy of a proud spirit broken, defeated, and knowing that the power to rule and to hurt, has been taken away, leaving nothing, no kind of friendship and the knowledge that the memory held by others is one of contempt and hatred.There is not an amusing or a thrilling film, but its beautiful acting and direction make it something unique in the history of the cinema.MR. LI CHOR CHI'S

Queen'sDramatic, thrilling, exciting, romantic, humorous, poignant!Those are strong descriptive,
but they hardly suffice for the new Paramount film which is now showing at the Queen's Theatre.
"The Eagle and the Hawk" is its name. And it's a name that you'll hear frequently for the next few days, for here's one of those rare productions that you and you will want to recommend to your friends. It's decidedly a superior picture which rates its superior cast—Frederic March, Cary Grant, Carole Lombard and Jack Oakie.The spectacular air sequences of "The Eagle and the Hawk" are in every way as effective as those sensational scenes in "Wings" and "Hell's Angels." And the story of the film is undoubtedly more dramatic. Not only does it tell of the tragedy and romance and glamour in the lives of these valiant war aviators, but it digs deeply beneath the surface and reveals their innermost thoughts,
their reactions to their dangerously adventurous existences.Frederic March as "The Eagle" a valiant and celebrated flyer who hates to kill, gives another of those portrayals that helped to bring him the title of filmdom's best actor. And an inspired performance is contributed by handsome Cary Grant as "The Hawk," a vicious and ruthless aviator machine-gunner. Carole Lombard continues to be one of the screen's most effective love interests, and Jack Oakie has a new set of wis-cracks which brought gales of guffaws.The film has a fast-moving tempo and proceeds to its climax with forceful and dramatic direction, culminating in an exciting series of scenes.In a few words, "The Eagle and the Hawk" is one of the best of the season's crop, acted splendidly
by an excellent cast, and directed to perfection by Stuart Walker.

"THE SHADOW"

Viola Compton's Fine Acting

One of the outstanding features of "The Shadow" at the King's Theatre on Wednesday, is Viola Compton's brilliant comedy char-acterisation of Mrs. Bascombe.
Her performance is even more of a triumph than it appears, as she was very far from feeling in a mood for humour when these scenes were shot. Her only son had just been operated upon and was lying dangerously ill in hospital while Viola Compton was registering laughs for the benefit of camera in "mike"."It was naturally a very worrying time for me," said Miss Compton, "but there is an old saying:
'Keeping smiling in which I am a firm believer. Anyway, I was compelled to keep smiling for my part! Everyone at the studio was very kind and sympathetic, and I am glad to say that my son is now well on the road to recovery."

"There is then the question of the defence of our naval bases,
more especially that of Singapore,
the key to the British Empire in and the War Office doing about them?"Finally, Lord Beatty dealt with the question of money voted for the Navy's requirements. Since he left the Admiralty in 1927 it had been reduced from $55,000,000 to $50,000,000, although increased this year to $53,000,000."From my personal knowledge,

the new Construction Vote is only one part of the Naval Estimates.
Out of $53,000,000, some $10,000,- struction, leaving only $43,000,000

for all the other needs of the Navy.
How has the Admiralty in the past four or five years been able to maintain the Navy on so little? I am bound to assume that it has been done by starving the Navy
in other directions.""For the last few years the Naval Estimates of the United States have amounted to $75,000,000 approximately. Is it possible that we, by spending $50,000,000, can be equally powerful or efficient?"
"It is impossible to imagine how, on the sum that we are spending on the Navy, the Admi-
rality are able not only to provide for new construction, but to keep the other necessities of the Navy adequate. Therefore there

NIGHT AFTER NIGHT

At The Queen's On Thursday

"Night After Night," first film presenting George Raft as the masculine lead, will open on Thursday at the Queen's Theatre.Raft, who skyrocketed to sudden fame through small parts in "Scarface," "Madame Racketeer,"
and "Dancers in the Dark," enacts
the role of the proprietor of a swank Manhattan speakeasy in the film, which is based on Louis Bromfield's novel, "Single Night,"
and was directed by Archie Mayo.
Constance Cummings, Wynne
Gibson, Mae West and Allison Skipworth have other important roles.
The entire action of the film is set in the speakeasy. It is the story of the queer romance that develops between Raft and Miss Cummings, a Park Avenue debutante, who was born in the mansion which was rescued from decay to serve as an oasis for the thirsty, and who returns to it to satisfy a deep longing to revisit the scene of her childhood.This romance is brought to a startling climax by a series of un-

Lord Lloyd, who presided at the dinner, remarked that Sir Ernie Chamfield was the first Sea Lord

the courage to speak his mind
about the Navy, as he did on Wednesday night."The leaders of every party have

SWATOW NOTES

Visit of U.S.S.
Asheville

(From Our Own Correspondent)

Swatow, November 11.
The U.S.S. Asheville left to-day for Hong Kong after a stay of about 10 days.Last Saturday afternoon "Bradley's Field" was the scene of what was at least a very enjoyable game
of baseball between the Asheville and Swatow. Swatow was badly beaten but that did not spoil our enjoyment. A sumptuous afternoon tea was served by the Recreation Club with Mrs. Pratt as hostess.Saturday evening was the scene of a large gathering on board the Asheville. In fact it seemed as though the whole of Swatow's foreign population was aboard.We have to thank Commander Wellbrock and his staff of Genial Officers for a delightful evening,
which began with a very appetizing buffet supper followed by a good programme of "movies."Visit of U.S. Minister and C-in-CWe learn that Swatow is to be visited by the new C-in-C of the U.S. Asiatic Fleet (Admiral F.
B. Upham) and possibly by the U.S. Minister to China (Mr.
Nelson T. Johnson) on November 21st. They will arrive on the U.S.S. Isabel commanded by Lieut.-
Comdr. Grosskopf, Mr. and Mrs.
G. R. Muir and their son (David) returned last Saturday from a short visit to Hong Kong and Canton.Mr. R. C. Coudroy (U.S. Vice-Consul) and Mr. M. H. Varn (Standard Vacuum Co.) returned yesterday also after a short stay in Hong Kong.Mons. P. C. Leblanc, Postal Commissioner, is leaving next week for special duty in Shanghai.

Duck Shooting.

Shooting appears to be producing bigger "bags" as we hear of one small party returning after a day's trip last Sunday with about 30 ducks.Air Service with Shanghai and Canton.Swatow is now linked up closely with Shanghai and Canton by the establishment of the Air Mail which passes through twice a week going both North and South. We hear that the service will shortly carry passengers, so that Swatowites will be able to spend long week-ends in Hong Kong or Shanghai.

Canton-Swatow Buses.

We noticed the other day three new and very modern motor-buses parading Kialat Road, and learn on enquiry that these are part of a fleet which will operate between Swatow and Canton with a daily service.We have been given to understand that the trip can be made in eight hours. The buses look very comfortable and if the authorities can guarantee safe road conditions it looks as though the shipping companies will have serious competition.It means that passengers may go to Canton or Hong Kong in the same time (or less) than a steamer takes direct to Hong Kong or vice-versa.MAJESTIC

FIVE COUNSELS IN APPEAL

Sitting Of The Full Court Yesterday

No fewer than five Counsels were engaged in a case which is occupying the attention of the Full Court
at present.

Mr. Justice P. Grant Jones,
Judge of the Supreme Court in Shanghai together with Mr. Justice
Lindell sat with the Acting Chief Justice, His Honour Mr. J. R.
Wood, to hear an appeal against an order made by Mr. Justice Wood in May this year.

The appellants were Au Wing-ki
Au Wing-yun of 28 Des Voeux
Road Central, Victoria, for Mr. H.
G. Sheldon and Mr. Leo D'Almada, jnr., barristers, instructed by Messrs. Tso and Hodgson were appearing.

Chu Yun-chi, widow, of No. 1,
Wood Rd. Victoria, the respondent, was represented by Mr. Eldon Potter, K. C., Mr. F. C. Jenkin, K.
C., and Mr. H. C. Macnamara, instructed by Messrs. Woo and Nash.

The Chief Justice on the motion of Chu Yun-chi, set aside in May this year an order previously granted
by him extending the time for registration of a mortgage and further charge between the Chinese Restaurant, Ltd., on the one side,
and Au Wing-ki and Au Wing-yun on the other. To-day's appeal was for the reversal of this setting-aside and for costs.

The dispute originated in the mortgaging of certain property by the Chinese Restaurant to Au Wing-ki and Au Wing-yun to secure repayment of $500,000 in June of 1928. In June, 1931 the Company further charged their property to the mortgagees to secure $72,500. In each case no step was taken, through inadvertence,
to conform with the registration of the deeds within the time required
by the Companies Ordinance, but Messrs. Tso and Hodgson applied for and obtained an order extending the time for registration. An application to set aside this order was successful and it was set aside
as a nullity and also as an order obtained from the Court without the full exhibition of all material facts.

CASE FOR THE APPELLANTS
Mr. Sheldon submitted that if a solicitor was engaged to carry out work, as Messrs. Tso and Hodgson were engaged to carry through the mortgage, etc., they were retained until that job was finished and in this case they were solicitors of the appellant until the registration was made, even though that was done
after the five weeks mentioned in the Ordinance. The solicitors, who through inadvertence omitted the registration, could have applied for an extension of time on their own account. Apart from their rights as persons affected, and apart from their rights as acting for the mortgagees, they had a fiduciary relationship which made it their duty to make the application.

Citing the "M. I. G. Trust Case" from the British Court of Appeal Mr. Sheldon said he relied on that case although the Chief Justice apparently dissented from it.

He also submitted that no material facts were undisclosed when the matter was before the Chief Justice.

In the course of his reply Mr.
Potter said that if the previous order for an extension was a "nullity" that point, as far as the M.
I. G. case was concerned, would not help Mr. Sheldon.

The case was adjourned.

ECHOES OF 1859

47. "Lynch Law" At Shaukiwan

June 2, 1859.

On the 12th of last month, Mr.
May the Superintendent of Police,
took a tour of inspection round
the island. On passing the narrowest part of Ly-e-moon, he observed a corpse on a cluster of rocks, which upon examination was discovered
to be that of a murdered Chinaman.
There were wounds on the head—
the hands and feet were tied, and a stone had been fastened round the neck. A coroner's inquest was held,
and a verdict of wilful murder
given against two men who had been apprehended on suspicion.

It turns out that the murdered
man was the victim of Lynch law,
and the circumstance illustrates so forcibly the savage propensities, and the clannish habits of the Chinese amongst whom we dwell that we consider it merits a little more attention than the ordinary run of law Courts, and fill up our con-temporary's blank columns.

The victim has made himself
inimical to the people about him by some means or another—one account states that he stole a goose from a boat—another than he stole a pair of trousers.....both seem improbable.

He was seized and tied by a number of men at the village of Ha Ko'ngshan, (where we suppose he lived and where the alleged robbery is said to have been committed).
Thence he was taken to the village
of Shou Ke Wan (Shaukiwan), distant about one mile and beaten through the streets. Thence he was dragged to some rocks on the waters

edge, tied and thrown in with a stone round his neck. Where the police were whilst all this was being done, we cannot tell, but it is very clear that the inhabitants of the two villages above-named, would never have acted in the manner described, if they had had the smallest apprehensions of being disturbed by the police.

To corroborate the impression,
we should mention that when the victim was seized, a sing-song was going on. He was deliberately kept for three days until the sing-song was over, and then tardily and publicly lynched in the cruelly prolonged manner described. Every man, woman and child in both villages must have seen the atrocity
and have been cognisant of all the circumstances of the case, and yet
if the Superintendent of Police had not seen the corpse on the rock, by mere accident, not a word would our authorities have known of the occurrence. So much for Protector-Generalship—Tepoism—and all the claptrap experiments of prigs and politicians. Two villages about four miles from Central Police Station and the Government making a profit of thirty per cent on the Police rate! Truly a nice state of affairs.

However, the Executive seem determined to let the Chinese feel the consequences of thus taking the law into their own hands. Numerous arrests have been made and if the case does not go to the leg by a fluke, the result must be serious.

New Railway In Chekiang

LINE THAT PAID DURING FIRST YEAR

Hangchow Che, Nov. 4.

The Hangchow-Kiangshan Railway runs its long steel fingers through cultural landscapes and lovely valleys. This wonderful light railway offers an attractive outing to the keen liker, especially at this season of the year when the magic summer fades in to the autumn mists and the whole country side is ablaze with changing hues.

This system is the only railway
in China to pay its way in the first year of operation, and the whole administration is completely Chinese. The completion of the undertaking is now well in view, and the people of Yushan, in Kiangse, are eagerly looking for the approach of the "Iron Horse" which has been timed to arrive at the terminus of the line
by the end of the year.

Already a limited service operates between Kihua and Chuhsien, and plate layers are busy in the final sections where the line girdles the boundary of three provinces—Chekiang, Fukien and Kiangse.

The track penetrates a charming undulating country, with woodlands, orange groves and bamboo trails. It is a fat land,
full of the fruits of the earth,
and a veritable fairland to wander in, where foot-paths dip and rise. At last, the beauties of Chekiang are now open to easy travel and the cost is small in both time and money.

One distinctive effect of this great modern enterprise has been to give a stimulus to the building trade. Quite a burst of building activity is manifest on every hand. Houses, shops, small factories and hotels—"modern and clean"—as one enterprising proprietor designates his new fashioned hostelry—are in course of construction all along the "Iron Road." From the railway stations, motor roads are radiating out in all directions, linking up the busy marts of town and village. This mode of rapid transportation has quite caught on with the country
folk, and the rural class, who formerly seldom left their homes,
are seized with the wanderlust
and the novelty of joy rides.

THE FARMER'S LOT

In the vicinity of the wayside stations new communities and business centres are springing up with mushroom growth on sites
which have never known intrusion
save by the ploughman and his
ox. The garnering of bounteous harvests is an interesting sight
and a journey to Kihua through this rich country is a feast to the eye. But alas, this peaceful countrywide is not devoid of sighs
and groans, and the man with the loudest complaints is the farmer.
He says he is being worked to death for little profit. Cheap rice and low labour is coming his ruin. The farming class have cause for complaint for the things they want to buy steadily rise in price, while everything
they want to sell continues to fall
in value. In the matter of commerce, too, it is noticeable that business worries furrow many faces, and even the small shopkeeper is baffled by depression
and the economic puzzle.—"N.C.

S.M.R. STRIPPED OF POWERS

Subsidiary Companies Under Manchukuo

Changchun, November 7.
An important conference regarding the proposed changes in the administrative and economic sections of the South Manchuria Railway was held here yesterday with Mr. Yoshitaki Hattai, vice-president of the South Manchuria Railway Co., Lieutenant-General
Kuniaki Koiso, chief staff officer of the Kwantung Army, and Colonel Numata, a staff officer, attending. Colonel Numata has just returned from Tokyo, having secured the tacit endorsement of the War Office to the projected reorganisation.

According to reliable information, Mr. Hattai approved the original measure of the Kwantung Army for the reorganisation. Thus the administrative authority in the special railway zone now held by the South Manchurian Railway

EXHIBITION FOR HARBIN

Some Preliminary Discussions

Harbin, October 28.
Yesterday evening the Harbin Exchange Committee held a special meeting regarding the question of holding an exhibition
in Harbin somewhat on the style of the exhibition which was held at Dairen this summer. After a long discussion it was decided to confer with the representatives of the Japanese Chamber of Commerce, the Chinese Commercial Society and other important organisations in Harbin, a special committee being formed to go into the question. Furthermore it was decided that the whole question should be discussed at a great meeting of merchants to be held at the end of the November
or at the beginning of December
when a special At Home would be arranged. The question of an exhibition at Harbin has been discussed on many occasions but it has never been carried through

CHINESE CULTURE AND CIVILISATION

The Rev. F. R. Lankester's Eloquent Tribute

"MY FRIENDS AND COMPANIONS"

Preaching on Sunday at St. John's Cathedral the Rev. F. R. Lankester of Yunnan, made an eloquent and outspoken appeal to European people in Hong Kong, to get to know the Chinese people about them, to put into practice the teachings of Christianity in all their dealings with this great race, and, above all, to abandon the unpleasant manifestations of "superiority complex."

Mr. Lankester paid a remarkable tribute to the Chinese people and Chinese culture. He has lived among them for over ten years. "It is impossible for me in any sense to look down upon the Chinese. They have been my friends and companions, the sharers of my joys and any successes in my life, and the sympathisers too in my sorrows and many failures."

"When one is living in close contact with members of this great old race, one realizes that distinctions of race and colour, and differences of nationality and language, one only like a thin veneer, and the solid part underneath, the part that matters most, is the same."

HONG KONG'S GREAT OPPORTUNITY

The Rev. F. R. Lankester took his text from Roman XII, verse 3. "For I say to every man that is among you, not to think of himself more highly than he ought to think; but to think soberly."

The Preacher said:—

Each one of us looks out on life from a different angle. Heredity, upbringing, environment, profession, temperament, financial standing, each one of them effects the kind of seat or box from which we look down on the stage, on which the drama of life, its comedy or tragedy, is being played before our eyes. When you get a number of people looking out on life from the same or similar angle, then they form themselves into a social class or clique and if this division or distinction is made too clearly or thought too important, it rightly or wrongly is reckoned as snobbishness or vulgarity, a weakness in human nature to which the human race, and some think, in particular our English race, is over prone.

As regards myself I feel that I perhaps have been looking out on life during the last 10 or more years from a different angle from that of most of you who are kindly listening to me.

Nearly twenty years in the interior of China, finding ones best friends among the Chinese, appreciating the contribution, their form of culture and civilisation, their old philosophies and customs have given to the world, must make a man look down on the drama going on day by day before his eyes from a different angle to that of others who during these same years have been living a life here in Hongkong very similar to life in England, or have spent most of this time in Europe or the Dominions. I may perhaps be biased. I probably am, but there is no great harm in that because in all questions it is generally best to study rather biased views on each side, and then perhaps take a middle course.

OURSELVES AND THE CHINESE

On this Sunday, the day after Armistice Day, our thoughts turned to what our contribution as men and women trying to live in the spirit of Jesus Christ should be towards World Peace. It is a pity to let this important question become so general and its scope so wide that it is shrouded in mist or fog.

We can easily make it a practical problem. Here we are living in close contact with another great race and our contribution, should be to try and improve the relationship and promote understanding and goodwill and friendship between ourselves and the Chinese around us.

It is impossible for me in any sense to look down upon the Chinese. They have been my friends and companions, the sharers of my joys and any successes in my life, and the sympathisers too in my sorrows and many failures.

When one is living in close contact with members of this great old race, one realizes that distinctions of race and colour, and differences of nationality and language, are only like a thin veneer, and the solid part underneath, the part that matters most, is the same.

The underlying nature, personality, character, does not differ radically from that of Europeans. The trouble is that most people only see the outer layers, the thin veneer, and they do not have the opportunity or inclination, the time or the ability it may be to see behind the veneer, the solid characteristics that lie there.

THE FAIRY BEAUTY OF HONG KONG.

Whenever I come to Hongkong

it always impresses me as a kind of fairyland, a story-book-like East. Although I live among the mountains and beautiful scenery in Yunnan, yet Hongkong seems to me to have a beauty of its own, impossible to compare with other places. As I see the life here one matter stands out very clearly in my mind, and that is the unique opportunity that exists here for getting to know the Chinese, and thus promoting real, honest goodwill, understanding and appreciation.

Unfortunately the superiority complex of many Europeans in the East is a great hindrance to all efforts in this direction. Real understanding cannot come through diplomatic channels, through treaties, pacts or conferences. It can only come through natural social contacts, leading to mutual understanding and appreciation.

Look at the opportunity that exists. To a large extent in Hongkong we are not up against the barrier that language forms. We need not spend years in getting an understanding of different thought processes and strange forms of culture. We have here so many men, and women brought up in schools like our own. Minds shaped and trained in Western ways. If one meets some of the most cultured Chinese gentlemen and ladies here in Hongkong in a social way, one cannot help being deeply impressed. You find Chinese men and women who speak and write our language better than many of us do ourselves. You look for intelligence and knowledge of English literature, science, art and culture and your find Chinese who are perhaps more proficient in these matters than most of us are. You look out on sport and you find them playing our games and enjoying our pastimes and many excel us in their athletic ability.

These men and women are looking out on them the same angle that we are ourselves.

It seems to me that if we fail to look on them as our equals, as being of the same class, or members of the same clique as we are, then we are making a great mistake, and losing a great opportunity for promoting international goodwill and furthering the cause of world peace as well as casting aside an opportunity of getting enjoyment and pleasure.

We are falling too, as Christian men and women, in carrying into practice the spirit of Jesus Christ and promoting that real brotherhood among men that we should have if we believe really in the fatherhood of God.

Surely it is only class snobbishness and race prejudices that can make a person judge anyone else by any other standard than that of what a man or woman really is at heart. Race, colour, money, profession, social position, should not be used as weights in this balance, that we use to test men and women and estimate their value. One great contribution of the war was to help sweep this away, and one great contribution we can make to world peace is for us to clear our minds of fog and mist, and recognize that the value of a man or woman is not something outward, what they look like, but something inward what they really are.

As Christians we believe in some future existence of a human soul, and surely even in our wildest imagination we have not thought of a heaven in which nations and races will be segregated and cut off from contact and intercourse with each other. Even outward differences will be non-existent beyond the grave and our duty as followers of our Lord Jesus Christ is to make these differences non-existent while we still inhabit this material world.

SALE OF POPPIES

Over $6,200 Collected For Earl Haig's Fund

Although the final figures are still not available because certain centres have not yet sent in their returns, the amount received to date through the sale of poppies on Armistice Day reached $6,200.

The sellers in Hong Kong were under the charge of Mrs. E. D. C. Wolfe, while Mrs. J. H. Hunt superintended the Kowloon sales.

It is gratifying to note that no less than $715.97 was collected from H. M. Ships while the comparatively small community in Taikoo raised $110.00. Mention must here be made of the excellent results achieved at Happy Valley where the daughters of members of the Civil Service Club took charge of the sales.

"INVISIBILITY" OF SUBMARINES

Less Top-Hamper

A new policy with regard to the construction of British submarines was foreshadowed in the "Morning Post" on August 13th.

It then stated that naval officers believed that British submarines would, in future have much less top-hamper, and a smaller above-water form, with a view to decreasing the visibility of these craft when operating on the surface.

Some of the "S" class submarines have since been altered with this object. The first of these, H.M.S. Seahorse, has returned to service after alterations.

This submarine now shows a greatly reduced above-water form and a general reduction of top-hamper. Not only have the upper deck casings been considerably cut down, but the 3-inch gun, which was formerly mounted just before the conning tower on a platform raised several feet above the deck level, is now mounted much lower on a level with the deck. The gun, moreover, is on a disappearing mounting. The top-hamper of the bridge has also been reduced.

In consequence, the Seahorse now appears very much smaller than the submarines of her class before alterations. It follows that she is far less visible when operating on the surface—a consideration of the utmost importance, since submarines have to lie on the surface when charging their electric batteries, and have to proceed to and from their patrol positions largely on the surface on account of their slow speed and limited radius of action when submerged.

I cannot pretend to know enough about the conditions in Hongkong to give much advice, as to how we can in practice give this contribution to international goodwill and world peace, and give practically an expression of the spirit of Jesus Christ in everyday relationship with the Chinese. Of course if we try to get to know the Chinese around us as a duty, it is hopeless and useless. No form of organisation or society is much good. It must be spontaneous and natural. With a feeling of benevolence towards them, rather than helping others. We can and should however clear our minds of a lot of shallow thinking and out of date ideas and realize that a cultured Chinese can be and is the equal in every way of a cultured European. Perhaps the most practical method is the social one, and a determination to try and look on people just as they really are.

If we are able to do so then let us make opportunities for ourselves and give opportunities to others of meeting the Chinese around us through friendly and genuine social contacts and so help clear up so much misunderstanding. We should too, it seems to me, reward Chinese men and women who are doing valuable and honest work for us irrespective of their race or colour. Treating them according to their value as men and women, without different scales according to their nationality, without subordination such men and women just because they are not European.

Let us bring the spirit of Christ into this problem, not only affecting our treatment of Chinese in general and individuals in particular but changing also our attitude and mental outlook towards them. The world to-day needs many radical changes in its thoughts and ideas, if we are to assure our children of world peace. So on this Peace Sunday let us not think of ourselves more highly than we ought to think, but think soberly. Not drunk with our own importance, or position, race or colour. Then we can seize this unique opportunity while living here in Hongkong of promoting real goodwill and understanding, friendship and appreciation between West and East, particularly between the British and Chinese and thus in the spirit of Jesus Christ give our contribution to world peace and international goodwill and friendship.

CHARGES FOR WATER

Complaints From Meterage Area

CHINESE LANDLORDS BADLY HIT

There has been recently a number of complaints from those living in Chinese tenement houses that the charges for water made by the authorities have been excessive and there appears to be very general feeling that something should be done to investigate whether or not the meters are functioning properly.

Complaints have been coming from all parts of the Colony, according to Mr. Wong Kwong Tin, Chairman of the Chinese Chamber of Commerce, who was interviewed by a "Daily Press" representative on the question.

It is learned that in some cases the water charges are so high that they amount to almost half the rent paid on the premises.

Chinese landlords, who make a flat rate charge for water are as badly hit as those who have to meet their own water bills. The general complaints have arisen mostly from the area which has been recently put on the meterage system.

There is every likelihood that this question of excessive water charges will be taken up by the Chinese community and representations made to the government. It is understood that quite a number of suggestions have been received as to how these charges could be kept at a reasonable level.

THE P.W.D. SIDE OF IT.

Our representative visited the offices of the Water Authority yesterday and was told that Government had received a number of complaints, both from Hongkong and Kowloon, but mainly from the houses which have been put on the meterage system within the past eighteen months.

The Executive Engineer in charge of the Waterworks office stated that the bulk of the complaints received by him came from districts which up till recently had drawn their supply from the rider main system and did not then have to pay for it.

It was stated that overcrowding in certain areas was partly responsible for the heavy consumption of water. In one Chinese house of two or three flats in the Tai Pingshan district it was found that no fewer than 130 people lived. It was not surprising therefore that under such conditions a vast quantity of water in excess of the free allowance was used.

It was explained to our representative that the meters were all tested before installation and that they were tested in exactly the same manner as that employed by the manufacturers at home. Incidentally it was pointed out that the meters were ordered from a firm which had been seventy years in the business, and that these very meters had been satisfactorily in use in Hongkong for the past thirty years.

With regard to the testing of the meter, it was pointed out that the consumer was always invited to be present at the test, but this offer was not always availed of by the consumer.

It was also stated that any consumer who desired to have his meter tested could have this done on payment of $10 which included all charges, but the money would be refunded if the test proved the consumer to have a legitimate cause for complaint. Such instances had been very rare, however, probably one meter in a thousand proving erroneous.

The accuracy of the meters was not to be doubted, if anything, the registration was slightly in the consumer's favour.

TYPHOON TRAGEDY

Twenty-four Persons Lost In Fishing Boat

The sinking of fishing boat No. 2770 with the total loss of twenty-four persons during the last typhoon, about a week ago, was reported to the Water Police yesterday by a Chinese woman named Chan Ah Sze, the mother-in-law of the master of the sunken boat.

According to the report, the boat left Hong Kong for Shanghai on a fishing voyage on the 13th. October, and on her return on Monday 6th November, she encountered a typhoon near "Tsim Kon Tau" outside Victoria Harbour, and was capsized and sunk, leaving her three white masts exposed.

Twenty-four persons were drowned, and all property valued at about $5,000, in the boat was lost.

The masts were recognized by a fisherman who informed the woman concerned when he arrived Hong Kong last Saturday afternoon.

NEW MOTOR BUSES

On The Repulse Bay Route

The Shanghai Hongkong Hotels Limited inaugurated their new service to Repulse Bay yesterday when five big new Bedford buses were placed at the disposal of their guests. These cars which are finer than any formerly in operation in the Colony have a passenger capacity of twenty persons each, and are a great advance upon the old type of bus. They are finished in grey enamel on the outside and the interior is more like a parlour than a car. All the seats and upholstery are finished in grey leather and designed to give the maximum amount of comfort and space to passengers. These cars will run upon the same schedule as the old buses used to, and will reach Repulse Bay in about twenty minutes from the time of leaving the Hongkong Hotel.

A RACIAL PROBLEM

Canadian Natives Of Mongol Type

The origin of a people is always one of the most interesting subjects it is possible to study for it holds a charm not only for the romanticist and idealist, but also for those practically minded souls who get their joy from facts and facts alone. The history of the natives of British Columbia, one of the largest provinces in Canada should have a special attraction for anyone living in or familiar with the Orient, for the commonly called Siwash Indian of British Columbia is neither an Occidental nor an Oriental, he is an enigma, a little of both. His facial features strongly represent the Mongolian and in many ways he bears a direct likeness to the coolie of Hongkong. Small, of stature, of not very cleanly habits and as unlike his romantic brother of the plains as possible, many historians claim that thousands of years ago he migrated from China and is a result of the interbreeding of the Oriental and the people who then inhabited Canada's Pacific Coast.

From time to time, ancient coins have been found buried in the wilds of B.C. which bear markings that are plainly Chinese characters and only two months ago, a medal, said to be 8000 years old was discovered in the heart of a giant Douglas fir tree which was being cut into planks. This souvenir was sent to an antique shop in Victoria, the capital city of the Province, and is now on display there.

Thousands of years ago, China evidently found it was worth her while to investigate the natural resources of the continent of North America surely nowadays, when these same resources are so much more easily obtained, it would be worth while for business men to try and promote a feeling of closer harmony and co-operation with the "Lady of the Snows."

JAPANESE POLITICAL MURDER

Prisoner's One Regret

The end of one stage of the trial of Nagamatsu (Kawasaki), who attempted to shoot Nishida took place at the Tokyo District Court on Saturday.

In the early part of the day's proceedings, the accused described his reasons for undertaking the murder of the "betrayer" Nishida and the scene of his outrage at his prospective victim's residence. He stated in conclusion that he was very sorry that he had not completely destroyed Nishida.

In the afternoon the bench allowed Kawasaki to make his harangue regarding the miserable state of family life in rural communities, for which he and his comrades rose in the May 15th case, the following being its purport.

The future, in store for the children of rural families is nothing but the slavish apprenticeship for boys and the lives as factory women, maidservants and abandoned waitresses.

There are numerous institutes established ostensibly for the improvement of the life of rural women; but, practically, such institutes, as represented by the "Patriotic Women's Society," have never shown much real interest in relieving them from the slough of misery.

Contrasted with the frivolous life of wealthy women, whose daily work is to visit to theatres and department stores, the rural women are destined to servility, ignorance and scorn.

But the cause of such a state for rural women is deeply seated in capitalism itself, the readjustment of which alone in the present day is impossible.

THE GERMAN ELECTIONS

Whatever the rest of the world may think of Herr Hitler and the Nazi policy, Germany's opinion is emphatic and unanimous. "I cannot conceive of any German not voting for Herr Hitler," said Mr. Bernard Shaw, who has a most irritating habit of being right, when the majority of people are wrong because they allow their wishes to obscure their judgment. Thus it cannot be denied that Germany's new found strength and unity have distinctly embarrassing possibilities, but the situation will not be ameliorated by adopting the time-honoured device of the ostrich.

The lesson of the last fifteen years is that a great nation cannot be suppressed. Under the handicap of the Versailles Treaty, Germany has evolved political and economic machinery that render a return of her full military might only a matter of time. There is still a chance, however, that all nations, or all European nations may agree that military might is an anomaly. A position in which some are armed and others not cannot be safe and stable. The course of events in Germany towards the climax has been inevitable. The only way that German power could have been broken was by a literal extermination of the whole people. In the early days of the Republic there was pressure enough to undo the work of Bismarck and split the country into small states, but the attempt failed, and to-day the tendency is towards an obliteration of internal demarcations. Nor was the indemnity policy much more successful. Britain took money from Germany to pay America, and America loaned it back to Germany. Without a bill to foot for armaments Germany reconstructed her industry, and while tariff walls have crippled her foreign trade the Home Market has been developed with all the thoroughness for which German people are famed. Moreover a back-to-the-land movement appears to have been far more successful in Germany than in England and America, and has made the country to a very large extent self-supporting.

The replacement of the gentle and ineffectual Socialism—Liberalism would be the British counterpart—of the pre-Nazi era has made for strength. Power has been concentrated, the system of party groups and coalition ministries, with its weakness and disunion, have been swept aside by the vigorous unity of the Italian and the Russian models. The Reichstag, let us not forget, has delegated full powers, legislative and executive, to the Government. It may not even be convoked, and though either its own President, or the President of the Republic, or a proportion of members can demand a session, the probability is that it will take little part in the governing the country unless the present Administration loses the confidence of the people.

The National Socialists of Germany, like the Fascists of Italy and the Communists of Russia, are evolving a method of state planning and state control, that makes for both economic and military strength. It replaces the confusion of the competitive system, with its duplication, waste and exploiting, by a plan in which every citizen like a soldier in an army, is a definite asset to the state. An Englishman may say "It all sounds like a gigantic barracks," but the fact remains that the net result is national strength. The Nazi movement is more than a huge-scale rationalisation of

DUTCH SEEK AGREEMENT

Inviolability of East Indies in War

Hague, November 8.
The visit of former French Minister of the Colonies, M. Paul Reynaud, is attracting much attention in view of the efforts made by the Dutch Government in Paris, London and Washington to bring about an agreement concerning the inviolability of the Dutch East-Indies in case of war.

In a remarkable address made before a local French club, M. Reynaud rejected as unduly pessimistic Clemenceau's prophecy that the European element in Asia some day would vanish. He maintained that the moral crisis which is overtaking all Asiatic peoples and which is manifesting itself much stronger in India-China than in the Dutch East-Indies, was mainly due to the fact that the Western countries too forcibly thrust their own culture upon the East, and showed too little consideration and respect for the fine, old traditions of the Asiatic peoples. The Colonial peoples therefore are infected with Western ideas which eventually must lead to confusion and unrest.

M. Reynaud ventured the opinion that the dangers of a Communist propaganda in the Far East are exaggerated, holding that the nationalist agitation fomented by Moscow was much more dangerous.

In conclusion the speaker emphasized the importance of a closer co-operation among the principal colonial Powers, especially Holland, France and Great Britain.—Trans-Ocean Kuo Min.

Germany: it is more than a bid for political equality among the nations. It has that curious quality, a spiritual basis, a fanaticism, let us call it, such as promoted the Crusades, carried the early Christians and Mohammedans to victory, and has been expressed on a smaller scale in national wars of liberation during the last four centuries. The greatness of Germany—the prosperity of the people, as against the opulence of the few, the searching out of new ideals of physical fitness, of intellectual vigour, the re-birth of what is considered the essence of all that was great in the Germanic peoples in the past are the conscious and well defined objects of the Nazi movement.

A force of such intensity cannot fail to arouse fear. Does it mean a recrudescence of the pre-war dream of German domination by the sword, and in ten or twenty years, another "World War"? There is, we believe, no need for such catastrophes, but the situation calls for wise and generous statesmanship, for a reconstruction of the League of Nations, and a muzzling of fire-eaters and panic mongers, with their hopeless panacea of security by overwhelming armaments, that cannot achieve their object, if only because of the drain they impose on the economic life of a people. It is useless to cherish the idea that the storm will blow itself out, and that Herr Hitler is "weak and hysterical." He is effective, as Mr. Lloyd George was effective in his younger days, as were Lenin and Trotsky, and as Stalin and Mussolini are to-day. On the other hand, there is no need to impute to Germany plans for world conquest, which in fact equally apply to Japan and America, France and all else falls to the "Secret Empire of the Blacks."

FRANCE & HER DEFENCES

Frontier of Steel
Completed

Paris, Nov. 8.
France's modern super-fortifications, the "frontier of steel concrete" stretching along her eastern and south-eastern border, is described in detail in to-day's edition of "l'Intransigeant."

The four years' application of the wonders of modern technique to insure an inviolable boundary is now complete. An unbroken string of concrete "pill-boxes," topped deep bomb-proof labyrinth, form a practically impregnable and impassable firing line. Each fortress is so well camouflaged that, so it seemed the investigator, they practically seemed to pop from the ground.

Each fortress is surrounded by deep ditches and barbed wire entanglements. Their grey turrets are made proof against all known types of bombardment by giant concrete walls and reinforced steel. The flanking of the huge concrete wings affords cross-fires of large bore guns and cannons, which are completely sunk in a concrete base, and machine guns whose crews are similarly sheltered.

Complicated ventilating devices afford fresh air to the beleaguered defenders to be filtered through the world's most efficient gas absorbers. Entrance to the "pill-boxes" is gained over a large movable bridge which in time of attack may be rolled back into the depths of the ditches surrounding the turret. Automatically controlled doors of massive armour-plate allow a stubborn defence of every foot of ground. The entrance to the heart of the fortress resembling the archway of a giant underground railway, leads down to a subterranean city.

Thousands of railroad trains serve the whole frontier defence system, carrying troops, provisions and ammunition. The fortresses are fitted with elevators, operating rooms, electricity plants, as well as the supply of water from subterranean wells. The ammunition store-rooms are at the deepest level, barricaded by double-doors. A whole fleet of ships could be operated on the amount of fuel and oil already stored under the arch.—Transocean Kuomin.

LOCAL AND GENERAL

H.M.S. Cumberland is expected here to-day from her Japanese Cruise.

The Vice-Consulate of the Argentine Republic at Hong Kong has been re-opened.

The P. and O. liner Ranchi, which left Singapore on Saturday, is due here on Thursday at 10 a.m.

During the three days ending November 12 one case each of diphtheria, enteric and meningitis, were reported.

The speaker at the Rotary Club talk to-day will be Mr. A. E. Bates, who will give an address on "Forests, Past, Present and Future."

Chun-hoi of Peking city who was arrested on the charge of stealing various articles of jewelry from a residence on the Peak was remanded for forty-eight hours at the Central Magistracy this morning.

The E. and A. steamer Mungana left Manila on Saturday and is due here on Wednesday morning. The R.M.S. Empress of Russia (from Manila), is also due here at 8 a.m. on Wednesday. She will berth at Kowloon Wharf.

By kind permission of Captain Alan Poland, D.S.O., R.N. a dance will be held in the Garrison Lecture Hall to-morrow evening. The proceeds of this entertainment will be donated to the dependents of late Petty-Officers. Sells who met his death in an accident aboard H.M.S. "Prism." Special transportation arrangements have been made and the admission is one dollar and fifty cents per ticket, ladies by special invitation.

Ma Lei Leung, charged before Mr. Balfour with obtaining goods from Sincere and Company to the value of thirty-four dollars under false pretences was released on fifty-dollars bail yesterday. The defendant claimed that she had obtained the goods in the name of the complainant Ma Him-shing because he was her husband. A touch of humour was added to the case when Inspector Dredge outlining her misbehaviour in the cells when arrested, told His Worship that the defendant almost died when she swallowed "her own tongue."

NAVAL GUARD
"KIDNAPPED"

Trawler Defies Gunboat

London, Nov. 13.
A naval guard who was "kidnapped" on the high seas by a trawler which led to a hide and seek dance to a gunboat and destroyer provided a twenty-four hour comedy to all except the Admiralty.

Two British trawlers, Lucida and Gwenllan were spotted, it is alleged, in prohibited waters off the Outer Hebrides, and ordered to leave to by a gunboat. A Leading Seaman boarded the Lucida as speed. The Lucida immediately sped at off full speed.

The gunboat ordered the Gwenllan to proceed to Stormway without an escort (which she did) and wireless for the assistance to the destroyer Viceroy, both vainly scanned the seas then returned to Fleetwood, where the Lucida later arrived and was re-arrested.—Reuter.

SINKING OF WARSHIPS

Quick Denial by Soviet

Moscow, November 12.
Alarming reports that Soviet troops shot down six Japanese aeroplanes on the Soviet-Manchuria border, on November 8, and that two Japanese warships have been sunk in Soviet waters near Kamchatka, are emphatically denied by the official Soviet "Tass" news agency.

Both reports are declared to be "absolute inventions." This is the second official Soviet denial of incidents during the week-end. A Japanese newspaper report stating that 200 Manchurian citizens were massacred by Soviet soldiers at Patrovskoe following non-payment of grain tax, was on Saturday described as a "slandorous statement."—Reuter.

THE WHEEL OF CHANCE

Russian Philanthropist Dead

Paris Nov. 8.
One of the richest men and one of the most enlightened philanthropists of pre-war Russia, Sibirakov, died penniless and almost friendless in Nice to-day, aged 84. Sibirakov had contributed millions of Rubbles to valuable scientific research, including the Swedish Vega Expedition. The former millionaire who was barely saved from a pauper's grave, was saved from starvation only by the charity of the Swedish Government. His funeral procession was attended by his landlady, the Swedish Consul and two Swedish neighbors.—Transocean Kuomin.

CELEBRATIONS
IN MOSCOW

Sixteenth Birthday
Of Soviet

Moscow, Nov. 7.
More than a million Muscovites marched through Red Square to-day, in a monster parade which was the outstanding feature of Moscow's celebration of the sixteenth anniversary of the Soviet revolution.

From the parapet of the tomb of Lenin, father of the Communist regime, Joseph Stalin, present head of the Soviet Government, and his most important lieutenants reviewed the 40,000 picked troops of all branches of the military establishment who marched in the van of the seemingly unending procession.

The cheerless day, with rain and sleet alternating, in pelting the marchers, failed to dim to vigour of the celebration, which was staged throughout Russia, reaching its climax here.

Following the crack Soviet regiments came an interminable flow of rumbling artillery, clattering tanks and other mechanised defence weapons. A flood of civilians drawn from all parts of Moscow, poured through Red Square for hours, cheering the chiefs gathered on the ledge of Lenin's granite mausoleum against the Kremlin wall.

Only the usual aerial demonstration failed to materialise according to schedule, the weather making it impossible for the hundreds of Soviet fighting planes to leave their hangars, although they were all tuned up waiting for the signal to lift to a height which would permit them to take the air.

The celebration was formally commenced with a speech by Mr. Michael Kalinin, president of the Central Executive Committee. Speaking from the tomb of Lenin to a vast throng, Mr. Kalinin stressed the Soviet Union's anxiety for peace and friendly relations with all nations, but emphasised equally the nation's readiness to defend itself to the utmost. The keynote struck in the Kalinin speech was carried out in thousands of other speeches throughout the nation and in editorials in all of the leading newspapers of the Soviet Union, attacks on German fascism and on imperialism in the Far East, giving a realistic account to the military propaganda.

HERR HITLER'S PROGRAMME APPROVED

AMAZING MAJORITY IN GERMAN ELECTIONS

"COLLECTIVE HALLUCINATION" ACCORDING TO FRENCH OPINION

Abolition Of Versailles Treaty Feared

Paris, November 13. "Collective Hallucination" sums up the French opinion of the German elections.

It is admirable that two millions dared to vote against the goose step, says "L'Journal".

The complete abolition of the Versailles Treaty is feared by some papers which ask: Is Mr. R. MacDonald still determined to abandon the Treaty?

Vienna, November 13. There is mild surprise here at the number of "noes". Conciliatory action is now expected to enable Italy to continue her plans for a meeting of the Powers.

Vienna, November 13. It is feared in some quarters that Hitler's triumph will encourage Austrian Nazis to attempt a "putsch".

Rome, November 13. There are no papers this morning, but Italians generally hail the result as a victory for the Fascist idea in Europe.

New York, November 13. Just one more tribute by the German people paid under ruthless regimentation of opinion, declares the "Herald Tribune".

Lima, November 13. 394 Germans in Peru voted aboard the steamer Ertur, of which 386 approved the plebiscite, five abstained, the remainder being invalid, while ninety per cent. voted for the Reichstag list.

Berlin, November 13. The new Reichstag will consist of six-hundred members, so only twenty-five official listed candidates do not obtain seats. An avalanche of thanks from Hitler, Goebbels and other leaders has descended on the electorate who are promised freedom from political broadcast until further notice.—Reuter.

HOW THE ELECTORATE VOTED

Berlin, November 13. The German people have confirmed before the world its solemn avowal of the policy and its full support for the Nazi Party, according to a Government spokesman commenting on the election result.

The country's verdict was an overwhelming victory for Hitler. Even the prisoners in the concentration camps appear to have turned Nazi and an amnesty for political prisoners is considered probable for their "splendid demonstration of faith in Hitler".

The final results for the city of Berlin show that 1,136,233 voted Nazi as compared with 398,937 in the Reichstag election in March.

"FLAG DAY"

In order to celebrate the victory the Minister of Propaganda, Herr Goebbels, has instructed the entire population of Germany to bedeck their houses with flags today.

The only untoward incident occurred at Dortmund, where a Communist distributing handbills was shot dead by the police when he was attempting to escape.

Hitler's plans for the future are likely to be quickly revealed.

CHANGES LIKELY

It is understood that the Government has already planned extensive constitutional changes.

One of the first steps likely to be taken is the abolition of the Federal States and the division of Germany into departments along the lines of France for administrative purposes.

All powers and authority will thus be centralized and Prussian domination of the Federal States system ended.

OFFICIAL FIGURES

Official provisional final figures of the election and plebiscite are as follows:

For the Reichstag:
Total votes	42,975,009
For Hitler	39,626,547
Invalid	3,348,462
In the Plebiscite:
Total votes	43,439,045
Yes	40,588,804
No	2,100,181
Invalid	750,060

INEVITABLE RESULT

London, November 13. The double referendum in Germany has produced the almost inevitable result, states "The Times" in a leading article.

It was not to be expected, says the journal, that there would be many absentees from this grand parade of the nation. Abstention would have been too perilous.

But it should also be recognised that, uninfluenced open voting would always have given any German Government a substantial vote in favour of the positive side of Hitler's policy in claiming complete equality for Germany.

"The Times" concludes: Hitler has standardised Germany. Henceforth it will be with a Von Hindenburg, President of Germany.

"EQUAL RIGHTS" DEMANDED

Berlin, November 13.

The earliest German press comment on the Reichstag election declares that it is a choice for a world military force or reconstruction. The German policy has decided definitely for the latter.

It is now the business of others to act, but the basis must be one of equal rights.

"He who wishes to serve the cause of peace must not talk of sanctions, revenge, or the non-return of the Saar region to Germany."

FRENCH PRESS COMMENT

Paris, November 13.

Despondency is the key note of French comments on the German elections.

The general opinion is that Hitler's peace speech on Friday was intended for British and Italian consumption and it is feared Italy may turn to Berlin and forsake Geneva.—Reuter.

NAVY'S COMMUNAL KITCHEN

Novel Experiment In H.M.S. Rodney

An experiment now being tried out in H.M.S. Rodney may herald a minor revolution in naval economics. It has been the custom hitherto in H.M. ships for meals to be prepared separately for the wardroom, the gunroom (where midshipmen and cadets mess), and the warrant officers' mess, and this has involved much duplication of galleys, pantries and stores.

There has recently been introduced in the Rodney a general messing system for officers, under which the gunroom, gunroom, and warrant officers' mess are catered for on exactly the same scale, the meals in all three messes being identical.

It is too early yet to reach a decision on the merits of this system, but it appears to be working well. Wardroom officers state they find it more economical than the old system of separate catering. What the gunroom thinks and says is not evidence, but it is understood that the warrant officers view the scheme with favour.

The meals now served in the three messes may be somewhat simpler than of yore, but they appear to be sufficient and there is no perceptible falling off in the standard of cooking. It remains to be seen whether the system will extend throughout the Navy, as general messing for the lower deck has done in all but a few ships to which, for structural reasons, it is not applicable.

The standard of Navy cooking has improved out of recognition in recent years, thanks in part to the more careful training of cook ratings and in part to the provision of up-to-date oil-fired or electrical galleys and bakeries.

In a recent Admiralty Fleet Order awards were announced to two petty officer cooks serving in submarines for the excellence of the bread they had baked under what must have been exceptionally difficult conditions.

SOVIET AND AMERICA

Hitch in Recognition Parleys

New York, November 12. That the Soviet will have to submit to an intensive examination of the outstanding differences with the United States before President Roosevelt will grant recognition, is indicated by the prolongation of the discussions with M. Litvinoff, the Soviet's special envoy who is now in Washington.

The White House correspondent of the New York "Herald Tribune" reports that President Roosevelt is insisting on a detailed understanding on all the important issues.

Another paper declares that the Soviet's total claims for reparations on account of American intervention at Archangel, Siberia, in 1918, exceed the combined sum of the American debt and the private claims against Russia.

M. Litvinoff, who is consulting with Moscow, at the latter point, is reported to be surprised at the turn of events.—Reuter.

More Hopeful Outlook

Washington, Nov. 13. Following an unexpected conference between Mr. Roosevelt and M. Litvinoff yesterday, it is indicated that a definite conclusion regarding recognition of the Soviet may be reached before Mr. Roosevelt leaves for Warm Springs on Friday.

It is believed the debt claims and trade are dominating the discussions.—Reuter.

U.S. BANK SENSATION

135 Chase Bank Directors Sued

New York, November 13.

A group of shareholders in the Chase Bank have filed an action in the New York Supreme Court against Mr. Albert Wiggin, the former chairman of the Bank.

The action also embraces 135 Directors of the Chase National Bank in addition to Mr. Wiggin, and it is filed with the object of recovering the $100,000,000 losses of the bank owing to alleged "negligence, waste and misconduct."

Mr. Wiggin is charged with using the bank's position to his own gain "illegally regardless of the interests of the stockholders."—Reuter.

NETHERLANDS WILL NOT RECOGNISE SOVIET

Hague, Nov. 8.

That the Netherlands will not recognise Soviet-Russia was made known to-day by a government statement in the Second Chamber in response to a Communist interpellation. It is declared that the fact that certain other States are about to resume formal relations with Soviet-Russia, can be no cause for the Netherlands' Government to change its mind.

The reasons which had prompted the Netherlands' Government to refuse recognition of the Soviet-Union still continue unabatingly, it is stressed.—Trans-ocean Kuomin.

A REIGN OF TERROR

Sequel To Rebellion In Siam

Singapore, Nov. 15. A condition approaching a reign of terror is operating in Siam as a sequel to the recent rebellion.

According to messages from Bangkok wholesale arrests have been made by secret police, and it is alleged that prisoners are kept in unsatisfactory conditions.

The secret Military courts are still busy dealing with a long list of cases.

It is estimated the revolt has cost Siam nearly a million sterling.—Reuter.

U.S. GANGSTER'S £7,000 COFFIN

Silver and Diamonds by Widow's Order

Chicago.

Still containing some 100 shotgun pellets, the body of the gangster, Gus Winkler, is to be buried with a lavishness only comparable with that afforded the most distinguished of his predecessors in the boom years. Winkler, a former lieutenant of Al Capone, was murdered by rival gangsters with whom he was very unpopular.

"Gussie lived like a prince, and shall be buried like one," declared his widow when she visited an undertaker and demanded the most expensive casket in the shop. She chose an elaborately ornamented $2,000 silver coffin.

She then announced that Winkler's diamonds, valued at $5,000, are to be buried with him. The gangster always decorated himself lavishly with jewellery.

The burial is to take place at St. Louis, in the family plot of ground. Winkler was a regular churchgoer, and Requiem Mass is to be sung for the man who is thought to have held a machine-gun during the St. Valentine's Day massacre of 1929, when seven people were killed.

Nanking, Nov. 7.

The offices of the Yellow River Conservancy Board will be removed to Kaifeng, provincial capital of Honan, on the 10th inst. The Board, it is reported, has decided to establish survey stations at several points on the lower reaches of the Yellow River, including Yenyang, Huayin, Shenchow, Tungwan, and the vicinity of the Peiping-Hankow Railway Bridge. Survey parties will be despatched to these places as soon as the stations are opened.—Kuo Min.

"LIFE IN YUNNAN"

Interesting Lecture By Dr. Lankester

ADVICE TO MISSIONARIES IN CHINA

An interesting address on "Life in Yunnan" was delivered by the Rev. Ronald J. Lankester of the Missionary Diocese in Yunnan at St. John's Cathedral last evening, to a fairly large gathering.

Dr. Lankester, in the course of his address, said that although the present conditions in China were far from settled, he found a great majority of the people in the interior of China living in perfect peace and contentment.

He gave a vivid description of his travels from Yunnan to Burma and of his experience with the various tribes.

Dr. Lankester began by saying that although we were living in Hongkong, amongst and with the Chinese, yet in some ways we were far separated from the China as he saw it. After reading the events taking place in the interior of China, famine, floods and brigandage, one is apt to think that such conditions only existed in that part of the world. Yet in his experience, he found a great majority of the people in the interior of China living in perfect peace and contentment—bringing up their families, doing their duties towards their relatives, marrying off their daughters, obtaining wives for their sons, burying their dead and reverencing their ancestors.

Dr. Lankester said that he had had the privilege of living for many years in the interior of China, associating with the Chinese in their homes, attending the joyful ceremonies—weddings and birthdays and reunions—and also mixed with them in their sorrows. One may sometimes have felt that these people in the interior of China were very simple and ignorant, and yet their simplicity was in itself kindness, while their ignorance might be just a lack of knowledge to many things that it was better they should not know. And so he felt that he had been living amongst a great nation. He sometimes looked into the eyes of some of these old gentlemen and women, and seemed to see their wonderful understanding about life and the things that really mattered, and a sympathy with the Westerners who were always demanding more from life. That is the view he got as he lived with the people in Yunnan. They had much to teach those in the West who always rushed about never satisfied or content.

Dr. Lankester then went on to describe the beautiful mountain scenery of Yunnan. The villages, he said, were scattered amongst the rice fields and were broken by little tree-flecked dykes. In the background there was a lake and the plain was surrounded by the mountains.

FROM YUNNAN TO BURMA

About three years ago he walked from Yunnan to Burma, a distance of about 400 miles. The journey took him about 40 days and 33 of these days he was on the road covering about 25 miles a day. He travelled with one Dr. Brackley and they had to use mules to carry their supplies instead of ponies, because the former kept a better foothold in the dangerous mountain slopes. After travelling for some time, they heard about brigands, and they had to engage an escort of about 30 soldiers. The merchants, on hearing this, decided to go with them. On account of the heat they had to start in the moonlight. After they had walked for a little time, one of the soldiers pointed a pistol at him at the same time asking him to stop. He asked for the reason and was told that the party had to pay the soldiers $5 for every mule. Of course they had no right to demand the money, but circumstances forced the party to accede.

He (the speaker) began to bargain with the soldiers, saying that he would pay them after they had accompanied the party past the place where the brigands were supposed to be, but the leader replied that they were afraid to turn alone!

The party had to pay the soldiers, and after having proceeded for a while, the speaker found himself alone, the rest of the party being far behind. During that moment, said Dr. Lankester, he found that there was nothing in the world that could compare with the feeling when he was right away in beautiful mountains, amidst nature—peace, happiness and contentment.

SIR HARRY LAUDER'S SONG!

On reaching Dah Li Fu, the party called on nine French Priests. They had a gramophone, presented to them by some merchants, and were trying out one of Sir Harry Lauder's songs. The priests could not understand English, or Scotch, and one of them asked the speaker to interpret to them in Chinese. The speaker did so, and the head in turn interpreted to the others in French!

On reaching Mekong they found two iron bridges which were constructed centuries ago. They had to cross a river, and had a most difficult time in making the stubborn mules do the same. Eventually they reached Burma, and entered India by way of a great iron bridge. After entering India they had to travel, for a day and a half before they came across any English-speaking people.

WILL OWEN HUGHES THIS MORNING?

Hong Kong's Strong Position: Leach's Gallant Effort

MINU AND PEREIRA BOWL WELL: HAYWARD'S FINE KNOCK

Will Owen Hughes declare the Hong Kong innings close this morning? This is the question that every cricket enthusiast is asking at the moment, and with Hong Kong 286 runs on, the chances are that a declaration will be made this morning.

Yesterday's play in the interport went to show that Hong Kong were the better team and that the big score they piled up on Saturday was no fluke.

After the side had been dismissed, Hong Kong's bowlers were set a good example by Beck who clean bowled Stokes with the first ball sent down, and from the very outset, it spelt a grim fight for runs on the part of the Northerners.

Donald Leach rose to the occasion in splendid fashion and batted like a Trojan but his efforts were of no avail, the rest of the team crumbling before the Hong Kong attack like the Bank Building!

Frank Pereira and A. R. Minu, the Indian Recreation Club opening pair, shared the bowling honours but credit must also be given to Beck and Garthwaite for the parts they played in bringing about Shanghai's downfall.

SHANGHAI'S BIG TASK

The Hong Kong innings was resumed at 11 a.m. when Ernie Fincher and Dunkley went out to continue their innings on what appeared to be a fast wicket which had been "baked" pretty hard.

Isaacs started the bowling from the Law Courts end, Dunkley getting him away to fine leg for a four and then Fincher played a maiden to Wilson. Up till this time, it appeared that we were booked for a repetition of Saturday's stone-walling tactics for neither of the batsmen showed any inclination towards hitting the ball. In the next over, however, Fincher got Isaacs away to the boundary (tram lines) to send the 240 up in 271 minutes and also to reach his twenty.

Hong Kong's innings came to an end in the next over when Isaacs sent down a beauty which beat Dunkley all ends up and took the middle and off, pegs. Ernie Fincher was thus not out for 21 while Dunkley had six, the last wicket stand realising 18 runs. Hong Kong's total was exactly 240, and innings lasting 273 minutes.

SHANGHAI BATS.

Stokes and Simpson opened Shanghai's innings at 11.25 a.m. Owen Hughes giving the ball to Beck to start Hong Kong's attack from the Naval Yard end. He met with immediate success, clean bowling Stokes with a ball which appeared, from the Press box, to be rather over pitched. The batsman tried to glance it but missed the ball and there was the welcome "crack" to the Hong Kong team and the score board read 0-1-0.

Pat Madar went in to fill the breach, and encouraged by his early success, Beck was bowling very well, coming off quickly, but "Pat" broke his duck with a single to give Simpson the bowling.

No little surprise was caused when Owen Hughes gave the ball to Garthwaite for the next over as it was generally expected that Minu would be put on. That, however, was perhaps due to the fact that the wicket was more suited to Garthwaite's type of bowling. He sent down a maiden to Simpson, while Beck did the same to Madar.

On the second ball of Garthwaite's next over, Simpson scored a single bringing Madar across to face the Army representative for the first time. The rest of the over was played by the batsman who did not score and in the next over, Simpson got Beck away for a two.

Simpson looked quite set by this time and put Garthwaite to the leg boundary (Chater Road) in pretty style but off the next ball he was given marching orders for obstruction against Garthwaite. It seemed rather an appropriate time to send the batsman marching away, as the files and drums of the Borderers were just passing the ground at the time, playing a very lively march. Simpson's four sent the 10 up in 18 minutes while his own share was 8.

Two wickets down for 10 runs did not seem too rosy for Shanghai, who were out to bat. Then further disaster for Shanghai for Pat Madar hit Beck to the tram line boundary and the batsmen were attempting the second run when Frank Pereira sent back a beautiful return to Beck to put the balls down with Madar about a yard out, 12-3-4, and play had been going on for 23 minutes.

Donald Leach went in to fill the breach and he saw Beck take one off the fast bowler to give him the bowling. He opened his account with a typical Leach shot, playing the ball past third slip to score a single.

The Shanghai skipper scored a single off Garthwaite and the next ball went for two leg byes, and at this stage, the Hong Kong fielding was excellent, so that run-getting was rather a hard proposition.

After Leach had scored a lucky single off Beck's next over, Booth brought off a nice shot to score a four—the ball travelling very fast to the fine-leg boundary, to send the twenty up in thirty minutes. In the next over, Garthwaite sent a full toss to the Shanghai skipper and the result was a four. The next ball Leach hit to Minu at mid-on and called for a short run but Booth sent him back which was just as well for Minu hit the stumps with a smart return with Leach only just home. The thirty was signalled a few minutes later, and about this stage, it looked as though Garthwaite had lost his length and runs came more frequently.

Minu was then put on for Garthwaite in the Law Courts end, but he was, as usual, bowling very short and four runs came off his first over, the forty being signalled in 44 minutes. Leach took 24 minutes to get his ten and then he gave a very difficult chance to get to it. In Minu's second over, Booth gave a chance to Hayward at second slip but again the ball fell short of the fielder.

The next over saw Owen Hughes putting on Pereira in place of Beck and the change had the desired effect for Booth tried to turn the third ball and gave an easy catch to Teddy Fincher at third slip, 44-4-18. Booth had been batting for 34 minutes and appeared well-set when his downfall came about.

Sinclair joined his captain who was watching the fast bowler very carefully. Like Beck, Pereira was coming off very fast and his first over resulted in his getting one wicket for one run.

With his club-mate bowling at the other end, Minu found a better length with the result that he got another maiden. Pereira then bowled to Leach again who got a lucky single off the first ball. He had up till now batted 34 minutes, but his lucky single proved to be unlucky for Sinclair who crossed over to be bowled two balls later by Pereira. It was a beauty, taking only the leg-ball and with 48 runs for 6 wickets down, Jenkins went in to join Leach. The newcomer opened his account with a single off Minu to send the fifty up in 63 minutes. Leach took the next ball which he hit for a four, and after this over, a half was made for lunch, the total being 54 while Leach had 17 and Jenkins 1.

IN THE AFTERNOON.

After lunch, Pereira started the bowling to Jenkins who got a two and a four and in the next over, off Minu, the Shanghai skipper hit a four. With the total at 60, Jenkins played Pereira again who sent down a maiden.

The next over saw Jenkins taking a single off Minu, this being followed by a four by Leach to send the 70 up in 75 minutes. Then, when Pereira bowled to Jenkins, the batsman played a coded shot which sent the ball over the boundary. The next over saw Minu bowling to Leach, who hit a four, and the total was 84. In the next over, Leach hit a four, and the total was 88. In the next over, Leach hit a four, and the total was 92. In the next over, Leach hit a four, and the total was 96. In the next over, Leach hit a four, and the total was 100.

DECLARE

which he did and the ball went to Pearce at cover point who brought off a good catch, jumping up to take the ball, which was travelling rather fast—75-6-8.

Mayhew joined Leach and opened his score when Minu gave him a rather short one on the leg peg which he sent to the boundary but two balls later, he played forward to the same bowler, failed to get over the ball and gave Hayward a catch in first slip which was readily accepted—79-7-4.

Sam Isaacs joined his skipper who stopped three from the last bowler and then hit a four and a single to take the bowling again. Leach played a real captain's innings, and while he paid due respect to the good balls, he never hesitated to hit the loose 'uns.

MORE DISASTER

More disaster for Shanghai Isaacs shaped to face Pereira who bowled round the wicket to the left hander. Sam let fly at the first one he got and missed, but nothing happened. Then he let fly again and only just touched the ball to give Hayward his second catch of the day—a very fast catch which was taken in nice manner—83-8-0.

T. A. Madar was next man in and survived the rest of the over though he did nibble at the off ones. Leach then hit a four of the left-hander to send the 90 up in 98 minutes while he reached his forty in 78 minutes. Off the last ball, he stole a single to face the fast bowler and gave a very fast low catch to Teddy Fincher who did well to stop the ball from going for a four. Madar played the rest of the over without scoring.

Six Interport Points

(BY "L. B. W.")

The following are six observations on yesterday's play—

1. That Donald Leach's innings was an excellent effort in view of the fact that he was fighting an uphill battle all the time;
2. That Owen Hughes did a smart piece of work by starting the bowling with Beck and Garthwaite;
3. That the Hong Kong fielding was unusually alert;
4. That after Hong Kong had made the first 100 runs in their second innings, Owen Hughes should have sent his hitters out to get the runs quickly;
5. That Tom Hayward batted like an old master; and
6. That Garthwaite might, to advantage, have been more enterprising in the second innings.

Frank Pereira was at this stage bowling very well, coming off fast and keeping a good length. Madar nibbled at him four times before he got him away to the leg for a two. Leach then hit Minu for a four but off the next ball he gave a chance to Hayward at first slip which, however, was not taken. The ball was travelling fast and out Hayward's finger, and he was forced to leave the field to have it attended to. When the score was one short of the hundred mark, Minu bowled Madar with one which broke back—89-9-2.

Torry Wilson then joined his captain and with Hayward still away, Simpson fielded as substitute, taking his place at first slip to Pereira. Leach scored a two to send up the hundred in 113 minutes and the next ball he hit for a single to get his fifty after he had been batting for 91 minutes. Then he took a single off Minu to give Wilson the bowling and in trying to hit the ball out of the ground, Torry dragged his foot over the line and was neatly stumped. Thus Shanghai's innings came to an end after 117 minutes. Leach played a real captain's innings for his 53 runs which were got in 95 minutes, during which time he found the boundary eight times.

HONG KONG BATS AGAIN

At 2.30 p.m. Donald Leach led Shanghai out to field for the second time, and again Teddy Fincher and Hayward were sent out to open Hong Kong's innings. Isaacs started the bowling from the Law Courts end and he had a peculiar field for Fincher, having hit square leg fairly close in while Pat Madar was at first slip. The over was a maiden which took the total over to Hayward who opened his account with a single to take the total to 100. Then Fincher hit a four to mid-off to break his "duck". In his second over Isaacs beat Fincher, the stumps and the wicket-keeper to go for four byes, then a single by Fincher, followed by one from Hayward. Two overs later, Hayward brought off a magnificent leg-glance for a four off "Torry" to send the ten up in 13 minutes.

FINCHER FALLS

Fincher was giving another exhibition of "patient batting" and seemed content to play himself in without attempting to score while Hayward also did not seem to be in any particular hurry to get the runs. Fincher got a four when he cut Wilson past second slip. Sinclair might have tried for a catch but the ball was travelling rather fast and he did not start soon enough. Two balls later Hayward put the ball up to the same fielder but this time it fell short. Twenty was hoisted in 13 minutes and shortly after Hong Kong lost their first wicket when Fincher attempted to pull Isaacs to the leg boundary and, failing to get hold of the ball properly, gave an easy catch to Sinclair—39-1-4.

Pearce was next in but failed to score off the remaining balls of the over. Then Leach effected the first change, bringing Jenkins on in place of Wilson. This bowler had five men on the leg side, three grouped between fine leg but Hayward hit him away past fine leg for a single and then Pearce hit him past Pat Madar at square leg for one run.

He then made a change in his field and dispensed with his slip, having four men close in on the leg side, but Hayward was not to be trapped and played the rest of the over very carefully though he did not score.

PEARCE IN FORM

The first ball of the next over (from Isaacs) Pearce hit for a single but no further runs came from the next five balls. Again Jenkins bowled the leg-theory to Hayward and this time the batsman placed the second delivery to third man for a two to reach his ten in 26 minutes. Thirty was signalled in 34 minutes when one from Jenkins went for a boundary byes, and in the next over Pearce brought off one of those square cuts of his that are so delightful to watch. He followed this with a single to cross over and face Jenkins who was still exploiting the leg-theory. He survived an appeal for obstruction and celebrated this by sending the ball to the ropes to get his ten in 18 minutes. Forty was signalled almost simultaneously.

Booth then came on for Isaacs and each of the batsmen scored a single off him. In the next over Pearce had his downfall when he tried to turn one from Jenkins, and, touching the ball, gave Mayhew a chance behind the stumps which was accepted—47-2-13.

Peter Williams filled the breach and played the rest of the over tamely, not attempting to score at all. Leach then came on for Booth in the Law Courts end and after Hayward had got him away for a single, a stop was made for tea.

Jenkins started the bowling again after the stop for tea. Hayward took a single, Williams hit him for a four to send the fifty up after 54 minutes. The next over saw Williams taking a four off Booth. The next over saw Hayward taking a beautiful four off Jenkins to send the 60 up in 58 minutes, while Hayward, who had been batting from the start, reached his 20. Both batsmen were shaping very well by this time. Williams got his 10 in six minutes and then he got Jenkins away again to fine leg for a four, but a few minutes later, he was bowled in attempting a big hit—69-3-12.

Garthwaite went in next, and seven went up when Hayward glanced Booth for a single, play having been in progress for 67 minutes. The newcomer opened his account with a single off Booth. Leach then took over the bowling while he put Pat Madar on at the Law Courts end, and off his first ball Hayward hit a single while Garthwaite did the same to the next ball.

HAYWARD KNOCKS THE 100

Another pretty glance for a four by Hayward brought the total to 80 in 78 minutes while his own score was taken to 30. Madar had the next over and conceded four singles off consecutive balls. Singles were the order of the day at this stage and 90 was signalled in 78 minutes. Hayward then hit Isaacs who had come on for Madar, to the Chater Road boundary to get his forty in 92 minutes.

The 100 was signalled in 98 minutes when Garthwaite hit a single to get his ten in 31 minutes. Runs were coming very slowly but Hayward got a four eventually when he got back away to the Naval Yard end boundary for a four. With Hayward and Garthwaite work set, Leach rang another change, bringing on Torry Wilson in place of Isaacs and Hayward took a single off him while Garthwaite took a single off Torry. Then Torry bowled to Leach and he took a single to get his half-century in 108 minutes, the 100 being sent up at the same time, and five minutes later a single by Garthwaite sent the 120 up.

Garthwaite was playing painfully slow cricket though he brought off a good shot occasionally. He took fifty minutes to get his twenty. The 130 was signalled in 118 minutes and by this time light had become very poor, and Hayward got his sixty when he got a single off Torry Wilson after he had been at the wickets for 120 minutes.

Garthwaite's innings came to an end when the total stood at 138. He was l.b.w., to Donald Leach after he had got 24, the result of an hour's patient batting. His partnership with Hayward realised 69 runs in an hour.

Minu went in next and was given a good reception. He stopped the last ball of Leach's over. Hayward then hit a single but an overthrow gave him another and this brought the total to 140. Hong Kong's left hand bowler open his account with a four off Wilson. Then a single by Hayward off Leach gave Minu the bowling and he likewise hit a single.

In the next over, Leach got Minu caught and bowled, the total then standing at 148. Play had been in progress for 134 minutes when Owen Hughes went in to join Hayward, and he opened his account with a single off his rival captain.

With the first ball of the next over, Wilson bowled him and with the total at 149, stumps were drawn for the day.

AIR MINISTRY ORDER

Twelve New Super Fighting Plane

London, Nov. 7.

The Air Ministry has ordered the construction of twelve new fighting planes equipped with turbo-compression motors capable of generating 500 H.P. of riding 8,000 metres in ten minutes and making a speed of 350 km. an hour. If the trials of these twelve planes prove satisfactory, the type will be put into general use, places the "Evening News" in reporting the order.

HOME FOOTBALL PLAYERS' QUESTS, AND NOT IN SCOTLAND

Found - After Four Years

Special Air Mail Service

London, Oct. 23.

Deputy for four seasons, yet good enough as a centre half-back to win a regular place in any other first team. That is the unfortunate lot of young Salmond, the fair-haired understudy to Allen, Portsmouth's International pivot.

Against the "Spurs", while Allen was dealing with the Irish attack, Salmond was a tower of strength; in fact, he played with a greater self assurance than some of the older men, and not once did his form convey the impression that this was his fifth first team appearance in the four seasons he has been at Fratton Park (writes Kay).

I was chiefly impressed by his judgment in advancing from the third full-back position to a point where he could lend maximum support to the attack.

Mr. Jack Tinn must wish Salmond was an outside-left. This position in the Portsmouth side quite obviously requires strengthening. The club management knows it and is not idle.

Meanwhile there are big doings in Portsmouth in connection with the League battle at Highbury. Special excursions have been arranged and the Supporters' Club is aiming to get 30,000 to make the trip to London.

Portsmouth are not alone in their search for a winger. Several Southern club managers have taken a lively interest in the London Combination fixtures of Chelsea and Brentford. In the Chelsea team I understand the attraction is Crawford, who was capped against Scotland in 1931.

'SPURS' ENTERPRISE

Crawford has been at Stamford Bridge more years than he cares to remember, but he is still a raider of the match-winning class, and I am not so certain Chelsea, under present circumstances, can afford to part. They might do worse than give the wholehearted little forward a chance in the League side.

Of the Brentford reserves talent, Robson, the clever inside-right, who arrived from the Tyneside district via West Ham, is the player under observation. Robson is too good a player to be wasted in the reserves. Manager David Pratt of the Orient is an interested party in the performances of this forward.

My note some short while ago to the effect that Tottenham Hotspur were taking action in clearing the tenants from the cottages opposite the stand to make way for a super structure of the double decker type on the popular side was at the time received with scepticism.

The news is now confirmed by the 'Spurs' management. There will be extra accommodation for over 18,000 spectators, and boys are to have a special enclosure holding 1,000.

This idea of keeping the boys sectioned off is compulsory by law in many Continental countries. It has much to commend it, inasmuch as their exuberance does not offend adult ears.

At any grounds in Holland the enclosures behind the goals are specially reserved for schoolboys.

SCHOOL'S LEAD

If all schools and universities followed the lead of the London School of Economics the Football Association would not be worried by prospective coaching schemes.

The "Economics" have secured the services of Jimmy Seed, the Charlton manager, to coach them in the art of ball control, body service, and those other things which go to make the footballer.

The ex-Spurs and Sheffield Wednesday inside-forward tells me he has some good material to work on and has hopes of an improvement in the "Economics" standard of play being rapid.

A story has been going the rounds that Sheffield Wednesday offered the club management to Jimmy Seed under pressure from the supporters' club. In fairness to the supporters I am able to state that the report is wholly untrue.

The Wednesday were not even approached by a member of the supporters' club before they invited the Charlton manager to apply for the post.

Everywhere I go in search of football news I seem to hear the name of Rochford, who is referred to as a young back with a kick like a horse in either foot and a splendid football head-piece.

Inquiries had led to the discovery that this player joined Portsmouth from Cockfield. A native of Esh Winning, this promising defender stands 5ft. 9in. and weighs 10st 8lb. Rochford is being watched. Portsmouth also "know he is a good'un."

H. CARTER OF SUNDERLAND. I hear that H. Carter, the young Sunderland inside left, wishes to come south, where he will get a chance to exploit his other asset, a decided ability as a cricketer.

Carter, who is aged 20, has already played for Durham in minor county cricket as a batsman, and would like to qualify for a first-class county.

As a footballer, Carter is of the clever type, but he is a classic example of a young player, who has been brought to the front too soon.

Last season he showed great promise and was selected for the (Continued on Page 11.)

international trial match at Portsmouth, where he was not a success. He did not fit into the scheme of things.

Since that day Carter's football has shown a decline, and he is now having a struggle to gain a place in the Sunderland League team, due, I am sure, to the fact that his development was rushed, as I said at the time.

We wanted and we still want youth to be given a chance, but the selectors went too far in choosing undeveloped boys.

Blackpool lost very little time in replacing Robinson, the inside forward they transferred to Chesterfield. The newcomer is William Whitehouse, a nineteen-year-old player from Rhyl.

At Rhyl he has been carefully developed by Frank Barson, who has discovered a number of very promising youngsters in that district. Whitehouse actually joined Rhyl three seasons ago, but left last year to play for a Chesterfield club.

This season, however, he returned, and has been playing brilliantly. If he continues his present rate of improvement he should soon be in the Blackpool League team.

THE SAME VILLAGE

A youngster who is attracting a lot of attention from various senior clubs is Jack Lewis, the Welsh centre half-back, who has been very favourably compared with Griffiths, the Welsh international, who graduated with the same club.

Curiously enough, both men hail from the same village—one of those unpronounceable Welsh hamlets. However, whereas Griffiths started as an inside left, Lewis has never played in any but the centre-half position.

There may be, if O'Dowd, now that he has been definitely and officially returned to the centre half-back position, finds again the form which, eighteen months ago, caused him to adopt him as my ideal of a centre half-back.

It is up to O'Dowd. He is a wonderful ball player. I hope he has not caught the prevalent Chelsea complaint of failing to realise how good he is. Or, if he has, I hope it has not reached the incurable stage.

We all make mistakes. If I am wrong about O'Dowd I will say so. I know what he did as a centre half-back when he first came to Chelsea. I was there and saw it. He walked into the England team.

MALAYA'S BEST FOOTBALLER

An Interesting Competition

SINGAPORE FIRM'S ATTRACTIVE OFFER

Singapore Nov. 3. Malayan Breweries Limited, the proprietors of Tiger Beer, are organising a novel competition throughout Malaya, to determine by popular vote who is the most proficient footballer in this country and to offer him generous facilities to play in England.

Two ideas under this undertaking: to judge what standard local soccer players have attained and to allow a player to see for himself how the game is played at home so that, assuming that the man chosen is an Asiatic, he will do a great deal on his return to improve the standard of local football.

The winner of the competition, it is stipulated, will receive from Malayan Breweries Limited a return passage between Singapore and London, an allowance for expenses during the voyage, accommodation in England for two months, facilities for seeing a number of first-class matches and watching teams train, introduction to prominent players and an opportunity of playing with at least one English team. Apart from these facilities for improving his knowledge of football, the man chosen will be provided with a generous amount of entertainment and medical attention if necessary.

The method of selecting the winner is by coupon vote, full particulars of which can be obtained by anyone interested on application to Fraser and Neave Limited, the distributors of Tiger Beer.

Mr. W. W. Dean, the honorary secretary of the Football Association of Malaya, has been appointed judge in the competition and the progressive state of the voting will be announced periodically. On Nov. 23, the first stage of the voting will be suspended and the names of the ten players who have received the greatest number of votes and have expressed their wish to make the tour will

LORD INCHCAPE'S YACHT BROUGHT BY AMERICAN

Queen Admired Boudoir

Lyng in Falmouth Harbour is a wonder vessel, the 2,000-ton yacht, Rover, which its owner has never seen.

The Rover was owned by the late Earl of Inchcape. Not many months ago it was bought by Mr. Howard Hughes, the young American millionaire, without having seen it. Mr. Hughes is now in London, but he has not yet found time to see his luxury yacht.

"I had never seen the Rover, admitted Mr. Hughes, but bought it on the blue print, photographs and the reports of Lloyd's surveyors. My experience is that the English are the most honest race in the world.

The Rover is one of the largest yachts in the world, and the most luxurious ever built on the Clyde. When the Queen visited it some time ago she remarked that Lady Inchcape's boudoir was one of the most beautiful rooms she had ever seen afloat.

THE KAILAN MINES

Four-Day Week Ordered

Tientsin, November 1. Considerable excitement has been aroused among the workers of the Kailan Mines at Tangshan following announcement by the Administration that for the sake of retrenchment, work will be suspended three days a week. This step is necessary, according to the Administration, in view of the business depression.

It is understood that ever since the outbreak of the Shenyang (Mukden) Incident of September 18, 1931, business at the Kailan Mines has been declining. To reduce overhead expenses, a five-day week was put into effect some time ago. As business has not improved, however, work will be suspended for another day every week. It is feared that the miners have presented a set of demands to the authorities for compensation—"Kuo Min."

WHY NOT SPEED BOATS?

Suggestion For Hong Kong-Kowloon Ferry

(From Our Special Correspondent.)

Seven minutes from Hongkong to Kowloon by ferry, seven minutes to return, there goes fourteen minutes out of a tiffin hour and that is only if one is fortunate enough to catch a boat on the dot. In reality it takes nearly half an hour considering delays. This is a modern age. Time is one of our most valuable factors and saving of a few minutes during the meal hour, while it may not make ten cents difference financially does carry weight so far as personal comfort is concerned, and if the body is comfortable and the mind at rest it stands to reason that the human machine will work with greater competence. Bridges across the harbour have been suggested and discussed for years, a tunnel under the water also has been proposed, but now a novel idea comes to light. Why not establish a service consisting of four speed boats, driven by gasoline and having an average speed of thirty knots per hour. These boats could be made large enough to hold twelve passengers and although they could not operate as cheaply as the ferry does, it is almost certain that not only would a great many people patronize them and be willing to pay even double the ferry fee but they would give citizens a thrill well worth their twenty cents and would prove to the world that as far as the Orient was concerned, Hongkong stood for progress. These boats would run on regular schedule during the rush hours and the rest of the day would be for hire, similar to the Walla Walla service. There have been many times in residents lives when they would be willing to pay and pay dearly to cross the harbour in three minutes.

After looking at the bright side of anything it is always just as well to consider the pitfalls. In the first place a speed boat of the type needed for this kind of work would be almost impossible to procure out here and would have to be imported from either England or America. Secondly, unless one of the ferry companies sponsored this service it would be rather awkward to find a suitable dock for it, and it stands to reason that a competitor would not be exactly welcomed with open arms and invited to use their moorings. A little difficulty also might be experienced in finding Chinese pilots skilful enough to handle boats of this type and time might be required to train suitable men. The roughness of the water would make very little difference for a well made speed boat could cross the harbour in every bit as bad weather as the ferry can, although the passage might be a little rougher. Harbour traffic with a fast service in operation would of course have to be regulated and this in itself almost makes it worth while for it would be a great relief to all navigators of big vessels and small if the junks and sampans which at present seem to wander aimlessly about the harbour were given a set course to follow and made to adhere to it. Crossing the harbour now is like playing hide and seek one never knows who is going to appear next. The pros and cons of the speed boat service have been weighed and now like so many more ideas, it will occupy the minds of the people for a few minutes and then probably pass blissfully into the channel of forgetfulness and drift down to the sea of oblivion.

DRIFTWOOD

By The Beachcomber

THE PRESIDENT TAFT'S CAPTAIN

The U.S. President Taft came into the harbour this morning guided by the capable hands of Captain Charles Hansen, one of the finest skippers in the United States Mercantile service. Captain Hansen was formerly in command of the U.S.S. H. F. Alexander the fastest passenger vessel flying the American flag, and this is his first trip on the Taft since his leaving the Alexander.

BULLION

The vaults of the National City Bank are richer this morning than they were yesterday due to their having received a fairly large shipment of silver bullion from New York via the Dollar Line Steamer. The consignment consists of a number of bars of approximately twelve inches by six inches by three inches. The treasure was taken aboard the ship at San Francisco and contrary to the usual belief that money or valuables cannot be moved in the U.S. without a heavy guard, this bullion was dumped on the wharf and handled just like so many sacks of wheat. Maybe with the abundance of gold in the country a gangster would not lower his professional dignity by touching silver.

PASSENGERS

The President Taft carried a large number of passengers this trip and among some of the more prominent were His Honour Judge Milton D. Purdy of the United States Court for China who is on his way to Canton where he will hold a court for that district, Mr. and Mrs. Victor George Savi, Mr. Savi being the Chief Police officer for the Singapore Straits Settlements; Dr. August Spachner, and his wife who are taking a round the world cruise and who will stay in Hongkong for a few weeks and Miss Mary Daley Piquet, the secretary of the Hongkong University who returns to the Colony following a visit to Shanghai.

BORDERERS

BEAT THE BANK

Fast Rugger Game
At Sookunpoo

In a fast rugger game played at Sookunpoo yesterday the Borderers fifteen beat the Hongkong Bank team by two tries (6 points) to nil. The Bank had hard luck in not scoring early in the game for they had things all their own way in the first half, but faulty work resulting from a tendency to hang on to the ball too long proved their undoing.

The soldiers scored almost immediately after the interval, a fine run by Martin earning them a try near the flag. The kick failed. The earlier pace proved too much for the Bank for they did not show the same speed in the second half. The game ended almost in darkness, and just before the final whistle sounded the soldiers obtained their second try, also near the flag, but it was not converted. Edwards played a good game at back for the Bank and was responsible for the breaking up of several fine movements by the Borderers.

MARINE COURT CASES

Unlawful Lying Of Boats

Before Commander Newell at the Marine Court yesterday, two Chinese named Wong Yung and Lan Kwai were charged with unlawfully lying up along side the S.S. "Kwai Yang." They pleaded guilty and were fined each $5.

UNLAWFUL DREDGING IN NAVAL ANCHORAGE

For unlawfully dredging in the Naval Anchorage, Kowloon, three Chinese boatmen named Cheng Ng Tai, Leung Ng and Lai Kam Shui were charged before Commander Newell at the Marine Court yesterday. They pleaded guilty and were fined $15.

"FOREIGN DEVIL"

In Burma they found the people very shy, but after talking with them for a time they became friendly. They still called the white people "foreign devil" but that is not meant as an insult for they did not know how to call them.

THE BAI YEE TRIBE

In one place in West Yunnan the party encountered a tribe called Bai Yee. This tribe had a written language of their own. On entering the place, Dr. Lankester met a Swedish missionary who told him that he was translating the St. Matthew's Gospel into the Bai Yee language. Dr. Lankester then continued to describe his experience when he left Yunnan for Hongkong. He met a missionary named Dr. Roche who had been living with a tribe called Na She. These people Dr. Roche told him were curious and they also had a written language of their own like the Bai Yee. Dr. Roche had three hundred books of that language, with them and he told the speaker that he was going to translate them into English. The Language of the Na She was more or less like a pictorial language—describing everything by pictures.

WEST OF YUNNAN

In West Yunnan, Dr. Lankester encountered many extraordinary things, which, he said, were difficult to explain.

When he travelled to Ling An, he had two escorts on account of brigands, but when he asked his two escorts if there were any brigands, he received the following reply "We brigands are not robbing any body at present."

YUNNANFU

Dr. Lankester then went on to describe Yunnanfu. The city, he said, now had motor roads, and the first thing a visitor noticed would probably be the colour of the clothes the villagers wear. They usually wore blue coats and red trousers. If sometimes a modern Chinese lady was seen about the streets in her modern and colourful dress, she would still be the subject of much comment by the villagers. Many modern improvements had been made to the city, and, in the speaker's opinion, it now very much resembled Hongkong.

However, public executions were still carried on. The condemned person was usually led to a vacant space of ground in a ricksha with a company of soldiers in front.

Dr. Lankester then described the work that had to be done by missionaries, and added that they were not merely paid by the Church Missionary Society in England, but had to raise subscriptions themselves.

ADVICE TO MISSIONARIES

Dr. Lankester concluded his address by strongly asking other missionaries to create a mutual understanding and goodwill between the West and the East, particularly among the Chinese people, was to live in the spirit of Jesus Christ and not trying to teach them Western ideas, he concluded.

guilty and the Magistrate fined the first and third defendants $3 each while the second, who had been previously convicted, was fined $5.

LEAVING PORT WITHOUT CLEARANCE

For unlawfully leaving the port during prohibited hours and without a night clearance from the Harbour Master, Cheng Muk, coxain of the steam launch "Kwai Hing" was charged before Commander Newell at the Marine Court yesterday. He pleaded guilty and was fined $15.

WARNING TO SHIPPING

Water-Logged Junk Dangerous To Navigation

The Harbour Master has issued a warning to shipping to the effect that the master of the British steamer "Young Shing" has reported to have sighted a large water-logged junk with about 3 feet showing above water, on his voyage to this port.

The position of the derelict, which considered to be a danger to navigation, is in—Latitude 22 deg. 12' North Longitude 114 deg. 32' East.

S.S. HAI-NING HELD UP IN FOCHOW

The steamer Hai-ning arrived in port this morning one day behind schedule. She was held up at Fochow for two days, due to a strike among the stevedores and junk coolies. The strike was caused by the Chinese demanding a change of stewards upon the boat, claiming that those working there at present had been serving too long and that employment should be shared by all, not confined to a few. After much arguing and a delay of forty-eight hours the coolies went back to work and are sending a delegate to Hongkong to place their claims before the company heads here.
